CHICAGO MUST STOP LAKE DIVERSION

MICHIGAN IS WINNER IN LONG FIGHT

POTTER, BRUCKER LED BATTLE IN COURTS

BY GILBERT T. SHILSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 13—(AP)—A decision by the United States supreme court today brought Michigan to approximate victory in the long-extended fight to end excessive diversion of Great Lakes water through the Chicago drainage canal, according to state officials.

Justice W. W. Potter of the supreme bench, who as attorney general launched a vigorous attack upon the Chicago sanitary district, charging the diversion was injuring navigation and destroying riparian rights, expressed satisfaction at the ruling.

The federal court held, in effect, that the diversion may go on temporarily, as a protection to public health, but that as rapidly as possible the flow must be throttled down to a point where lake levels will not be menaced.

Flow Not Dangerous.

In an opinion prepared by Chief Justice Taft the way was clearly pointed to an eventual decrease which will prohibit the 8500 cubic feet or more now being taken. He held that the diversion authorized by the secretary of war, 4167 cubic feet, is legal, and refused to grant an injunction to restrain diversion, but emphatically declared that the lake states have riparian rights which must be respected. The court opinion, according to Justice Potter and Wilber M. Brucker, attorney general, fixes guideposts which must be followed in the decree and which can result only in a reduction of diversion to the no-relief figure below.

The flow allowed by the secretary of war will not seriously affect the lakes, it was said.

Justice Potter and Brucker asserted that when the mandates of Justice Taft's opinion are carried out, the state will have won its important point. The water flow will be cut so that it will not be seriously objectionable.

Governor Fred W. Green found a distinct advantage in the ruling aside from the protection to lake waters. He declared much of the Canadian opposition to the proposed St. Lawrence waterway was based upon the claim that Chicago is taking water from the Great Lakes in quantities injurious to Canada. He believes that when the diversion is cut to a reasonable basis it will result in Canadian enthusiasm for the St. Lawrence development.

Is Old Fight.

"A decree which will restore the lakes to their normal levels, that is, which will not decrease the level below its normal fluctuations, will be an immense victory for Michigan," Justice Potter averred. "A difference of one inch at the Soo locks might constitute an enormous blight upon navigation."

Justice Potter carried the case to the federal courts and argued there for an order against the sanitary district. Before him the late Andrew B. Dougherty, as attorney general, had waged the fight and since Potter's elevation to the supreme bench it has been carried on by Brucker.

The case was viewed in state circles as of the utmost importance. Intertwined with the question of damage to shipping were those of the right of lake states to control their waters and the validity of riparian rights.

List 4 Dry Law Violations Against Manistique Man

Habitual Criminal Charge is Made

Manistique, Jan. 14 (Special)—Tony Papich was arraigned in circuit court here today, on a charge of being a habitual criminal under the Michigan criminal code which provides life sentences for those who have been convicted four times of felonies. Papich has been convicted four times previously and now faces his fifth trial. One of the previous convictions was in circuit court in Schoolcraft county; the other three were in federal court. All involve liquor law violations. He is the second upper peninsula man to be charged with being a habitual criminal and the first in Schoolcraft county.

Out of twenty criminal cases on the calendar when Judge Herbert W. Runnels opened circuit court here today, eight pleas of guilty were received, six entered pleas of not guilty, and two failed to appear. The pleas of guilty were by the following: Gladys Whitney and Henry Harris, charged with larceny; Peter DeKos, Bernie McEachern, Dave Robare, John Ivan Johnson, Joseph DeSomer, Bryon Wright, all liquor law violators.

Those who pleaded not guilty were: Tony Papich, liquor law violation, fifth felony; George D. Hamiel, rape; Mike Eanich and John Gasperich, manufacture, sale possession of liquor; John Rogers and Charles E. Wilson, larceny.

Two are Missing

Continuances were granted the following: Donald Black, embezzlement; Ray Henry forgery; Erl Palmer, prohibition violation, and Richard Lynts, burglary.

Two did not appear. Howard Latch, charged with larceny and Frank Jersey, with desertion, were missing and their bonds were forfeited. A motion for continuance in the cases of James Hayden, charged with desertion, was made by his attorney, J. J. Herbert.

The first jury trial of the term will be the Hamiel case. It will begin today. The cases of Charles E. Wilson, John Rogers and Tony Papich will follow in order.

County Prosecutor V. I. Hixon is preparing for one of the busiest criminal court sessions of recent years.

Judge Runnels has not yet announced when sentenced will be pronounced on those who entered guilty pleas.

Gilda Gray Gets Second Divorce

Waukesha, Wis., Jan. 14. —(AP)—Gilda Gray, who rose from entertainer at a cheap Milwaukee cafe to movie actress and dancer, today ended her second matrimonial venture, when she was granted a divorce decree against Gil Boag, her manager.

At 17, before she became known as the originator of the "shimmy", she married Martin Korecki, a bartender. They were divorced and in 1924 Miss Gray married Boag.

Under Wisconsin laws she is not permitted to remarry within a year. But this restriction meant little to her, she said, because she has "neither time nor inclination to think of such things as love and marriage."

Illinois Habitual Criminal Act Fails in First Attempt

Chicago, Jan. 14—(AP)—A jury rebuffed the state's first attempt to invoke the habitual criminal act today by acquitting a defendant.

HARVEST TIME TO FIND FARM AID ON BOOKS

HOOVER PREPARES TO MAKE WORD GOOD

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1929, by the Escanaba Press)

Washington, Jan. 13—The extra session of congress will be called in the spring instead of the autumn.

This was made known definitely by two developments—first, the news that farm leaders had almost unanimously told President-elect Hoover that they would not welcome farm relief legislation under the Coolidge administration; and, second, by the significant remark of one member of congress who has been calling on Mr. Hoover and who pointed to the following paragraph in the last speech made by the republican nominee, namely his address on November 2, at St. Louis in which he said in part:

"I am hopeful that in the December session of Congress it will be possible to reach that solution. However, as I have already stated, if this is not possible I would call a special session in order that we might speedily arrive at a determination of the question before the next harvest."

Before Next Harvest.

The words "before the next harvest" can of course mean only one thing, action in the spring of this year or earlier.

The farm leaders have told Mr. Hoover it is impossible to reach an understanding at this session. They feel that 50 per cent of the problem is legislative and the other fifty per cent is psychological; that the feeling engendered by the Coolidge veto of the McNary-Haugen bill is such that the farmers would simply not regard a Coolidge bill as sympathetic with their ideas. In other words, the farmers have so long been sold the notion that Mr. Coolidge is hostile to the farmers that the same measure framed in a special session and signed by Mr. Hoover would have a better welcome, so to speak, from the start.

While this is a situation over which Mr. Hoover had no control—in fact he warmly concurred in the veto of the McNary Haugen bill—nevertheless it is one of those strange turns of politics that the president-elect has been represented as a better friend of farm export legislation than the present incumbent and hence a special session is sought.

Tariff Problem Delay.

The opponents of an extra session in the spring are largely those who want to postpone tariff revision as long as possible. Powerful influences no doubt will be brought to bear to defer action on the tariff bill, but those same influences must first convince the farm group of the importance of having a Coolidge-made bill pass at this session and this, as outlined already, is a psychological problem which the members of congress from western states feel cannot be solved in any other way than by an extra session.

Again the phrase, "before the next harvest," comes in and the farm leaders feel they cannot approve the suggestion of an extra session in September.

Situation Clears Up.

The whole situation is clarifying, therefore, and whereas a few

Field Marshall Foch, Commander-in-Chief of Allied Armies, is Ill

Paris, Jan. 14—(AP)—Ferdinand Foch, marshal of France and commander-in-chief of the allied armies in the closing stages of the world war, tonight was holding a slight advantage in his most critical engagement, a battle against illness.

The winner of many gigantic battles was fighting for his own life against a heart attack which struck him down this morning while he was lighting the cigar which habitually follows his morning coffee.

The marshal was resting this evening, but was in a rather exhausted state after the bitter struggle of the day. Intermittent sinking spells, followed by courageous recoveries, had six doctors worried. At one stage his two daughters were called to the bedside with their mother and many expected that the end was near, but the medical men on leaving the house this evening said the condition of their patient was fairly satisfactorily.

The doctors issued this short communique:

"The marshal is suffering from a heart attack, necessitating complete rest."

They explained however, that M. Foch was enjoying what probably would be only a temporary truce. The probability of another attack was regarded with the gravest forebodings.

Marshal Foch caugh a cold on Armistice day which settled in his bronchial tubes, causing a cough and affecting the heart.

MIDDLEWEST IN WINTER'S GRIP

Sub-Zero Weather and Snow Results in Several Deaths

Chicago, Jan. 14—(AP)—The mid-west was locked tonight in the icy grip of one of the most severe cold waves and the worst snow storm in recent years.

Sub-zero temperatures that yesterday broke records of 40 years were followed today by a snow storm that continued from dawn until dark and was expected to last until tomorrow, when weather almost as cold as that of the last three days was predicted.

The storm and cold tonight had succeeded in accounting for the death of half a dozen persons and suffering for thousands of others, had blocked main highways in half a dozen states, hampered rail transportation and tied wire communication facilities into a snarl that threatened to become worse.

Fishermen Lost

The weather bureau held out little hope of immediate relief either from the cold or the snow. For the most part snow was predicted tonight for the entire area from the Mississippi to the Ohio river valleys with a new cold wave Tuesday expected to be almost as severe as that of yesterday, when the mercury ranged from zero to more than 20 below.

A Chicago & North Western railroad engineer was killed by a snow plow at Minnesota Junction, Wis., and fears were expressed for the safety of two parties of fishermen, one of which drifted into Lake Superior, near Isle Royale, Saturday, and the other of which put out from Charlevoix, Michigan. Searching parties are looking for each of them.

Fire Threatens Business Block in Kalamazoo

Kalamazoo, Jan. 14—(AP)—Fire which for a time threatened an entire block in the business district of Kalamazoo was extinguished after a two-hour battle by firemen here tonight.

The blaze started in the basement of the Michael Leo Department store when a pile of rubbish was ignited as the janitor opened the furnace door. Damage was estimated at $3,000.

OLD QUESTION TO BE SETTLED

Italy and Church May Agree on Terms Proposed by Negotiators

Rome, Jan. 14—(AP)—It appears that the vexed Roman question is really about to be solved. There is no doubt that negotiators, who worked with full knowledge of the Holy See and the Italian government if without full authority, have reached an agreement on territorial as well as financial conditions. The question now is in the hands of the Pope and Premier.

The agreement is based on the cession by Italy to the Holy See of a small extention of territory lying southeast of the Vatican Gardens, including the villas of Rameleck and Doria-Pamphilli with extra territorial rights.

There would also be an indemnity to the See of one billion lire, gold, which at the present rate of exchange amounts to about $52,632,600. This would compensate for church properties taken by the Italian government in 1870 by annexation of the Papal states.

"High Parties" Knew

The negotiators were Monsignor Borgongini Duca, secretary of extraordinary affairs at the Vatican, and Monsignor Pacelli, brother of the papal nuncio at Berlin, on the one side and Professor Gianinni and Domenico Barone, on the other. Barone died recently.

In Vatican circles it was said today that these men exchanged their views in conversations that were not official and which had a "private and personal character," nevertheless, it is known that they were authorized to exchange views on the subject by two "high parties" who remained entirely free to accept, modify or reject the conclusions reached.

The negotiations with the Fascist state were started originally by the Jesuit Father Tacchi Venturi and continued almost without interruption for about two years. By the expressed desire of both Pope Pius XI and Premier Mussolini these remained as simply tentative efforts in order to leave both sides completely free to make a definite decision whenever they thought advisable.

The question is now in the

SENATE VOTE ON TREATY IS OUT OF SIGHT

SOLONS UNABLE TO AGREE ON PACT DEBATE

Washington, Jan. 14—(AP)—Another week began for congress today with the senate still unable to agree on a voting time for the Kellogg anti-war treaty and with the house back at its principal task, that of enacting appropriation bills. Notwithstanding repeated failures to obtain agreement on the treaty, the secret meetings continued and, as on other days, hope was expressed that some way might be found to bring ratification of the pact to a vote before long.

Not worried by international affairs, the house buckled down with the purpose of quickly disposing of the war department appropriation bill and sending it to the senate. One of the first things it did was to insert into the bill an item of $10,000,000 for inland waterways barge line development. The proposed appropriation has the backing of President Coolidge.

Iron and steel formed the subject of discussion before the house ways and means committee, which is considering tariff revision.

Witnesses told the committee the industry needed more adequate protection. Before a senate committee retail coal merchants opposed the bill drawn in an effort to stabilize the bituminous coal industry. There was a brief flareup there when John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers, objected to the remarks of a witness who used the term "discredited" in referring to his Union.

Another senate committee, that which investigated the Ware election case, cited a list of irregularities in the election in Philadelphia and offered Senator-elect Ware, or his representatives, an opportunity to testify on January 24. Ware is ill in Florida.

The plan of Senators Edge and Jones to have an investigation of prohibition enforcement by a commission appointed by President Hoover after he takes office, was sidetracked, for the present at least, by a senate committee which questioned the propriety of a Coolidge congress in directing the action of the Hoover administration.

Asserting that smokers of "marijuana," a Mexican weed, became obsessed with the idea that they were Roman gladiators, Jesse Jameses, or Knights of the Round Table, Representative Spearing, of Louisiana, introduced a bill to prohibit the importation of the product.

Representative Laguardia, of New York, told the house that hostesses were lending a "5 o'clock tea" atmosphere to military training camps. He tried unsuccessfully to have an item of $3,750 for their employment struck from the war department appropriation bill.

A proposal to have the war de-

MRS. DITTRICH DIES MONDAY

Heart Trouble Fatal to Old Resident of Ford River

Mrs. Wilhelmina Dittrich, widow of Charles A. Dittrich, Sr., a resident of Ford River township for more than two score years, died at her home at one o'clock yesterday afternoon.

She had been ailing for several months but her condition did not become serious until about a week ago. Death was due to chronic myocarditis.

Mrs. Dittrich was born in Saxony, Germany, April 10, 1846. She came to the United States in the fall of 1883, coming directly to the village of Ford River where she lived until 1885. At that time the family moved to a homestead in Ford River township, and have resided in that vicinity since then.

The surviving sons and daughters are Mrs. C. C. Impey, Omaha, Neb., Mrs. C. W. Malloch of this city, C. Herman Dittrich, Chicago, Gustaf A. Dittrich, Otto Dittrich and Emil Dittrich of Ford River township, and C. A. Dittrich of this city. Sixteen grandchildren and one great grandchild also survive. Mrs. Dittrich has no other relatives in this country.

The body was taken to the Allo Funeral Home and will remain there until Wednesday morning when it will be taken to the C. W. Malloch home on Fifth avenue south. Funeral services will be held there at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon with burial in the family lot at Lakeview cemetery.

Negro Woman Holds Up Bank; Gets $500

Detroit, Jan. 14—(AP)—A Negro woman bandit held up a branch of the Dime Savings Bank here tonight and escaped with $500 before a policeman, stationed at the bank as a guard, became aware a robbery was being committed.

The woman walked into the bank alone and handed the teller a note, at the same time showing him a revolver half concealed under her coat. The note demanded "$1,000 quick or I'll shoot to kill."

The teller pushed out a pile of bills totaling about $500, he said, and as the woman left, grabbed a revolver and fired two shots which went wide. The bank guard heard the shots and followed the woman out the door in time to see her enter a car and drive away, a male accomplice at the wheel.

Children Burn in Barn Blaze

Tylertown, Miss., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Locked in a burning barn while their mother tried in vain to rip boards from the walls to rescue them, two children of Mr. and Mrs. Ottis Dier perished today.

The mother left the children, Otis, Jr., 9 years old, and Mary Inez, 6, in the barn while she returned to their dwelling 300 feet away to answer the cries of her infant.

She returned in a few minutes to find smoke curling from the eaves of the building and the door locked. It was believed the children started the fire while playing with matches.

U. S. SUPREME COURT RULES AGAINST CITY

FLOW OF WATER INTO CANAL MUST BE REDUCED

Washington, Jan. 14—(AP)—Chicago's diversion of water from Lake Michigan was held by the supreme court today to have been lawfully authorized by the secretary of war, but because the lake levels had been lowered six inches Chief Justice Taft ruled the withdrawals should be reduced as rapidly as practicable.

The court announced that Charles E. Hughes, who as a special master heard testimony in the case, would be appointed to determine through experts just how rapidly the diversion could be safely decreased.

In deciding the cast, which has been in controversy for ten years and in which millions of words of testimony have been taken, the court acted without a dissenting opinion. It ruled that the permit granted the city by the secretary of war was valid because the methods used in the diversion necessary in the interest of navigation in Chicago harbor and the lower end of Lake Michigan.

Sec'y Acted Lawfully

The present rate of withdrawal, it was held, could not be justified as an aid to navigation on the inland waterway from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, and diversion of water purely for sanitary purposes could not be authorized under existing law.

The effect of the decision was to hold that Chicago, through its sanitary district, had created conditions which made diversion necessary. The pumpage into the sanitary canal required the current of the Chicago river to be reversed by taking water from Lake Michigan to prevent injury to navigation through the turning of sewage into the lake.

While the secretary of war had lawfully met the conditions confronting him, and had not exceeded his authority in granting the permit, he had made it revocable and conditional, the chief justice pointed out. Chicago must comply with these conditions, he said, explaining that as soon as the diversion could be largely reduced or stopped entirely it would be possible to restore the old lake levels.

To Give Order

Most of the Great Lakes and Mississippi Valley states were parties to the suit. The court was of the opinion that the present diversion of 8,500, cubic feet per second was more than necessary to reverse the current of the Chicago river. Mr. Hughes, by consulting experts, including army engineers and other government officials, will report to the court for a form of decree under which Chicago will be required to reduce the present intake and in which it will be given a definite time in which to make other arrangements for disposal of its sewage.

That part of Mr. Hughe's report to the court in which he found the permit valid was sustained by the court, which, however, entered into no discussion of his recommendations of means for restoring the lake levels.

The case was retained by the

Herbert Hoover Will Return to Capital Before March 4th; Tour of West Indies May Be Given Up

BY JAMES L. WEST
(Ass'd Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Jan. 14—(AP)—President-elect Hoover is expected to return to Washington well in advance of his inauguration. Rather definite information to this effect was received today as the next president continued the conferences he has been holding with Republican party leaders since his return from the South American tour.

It also became known today that Speaker Longworth had been won over to the move for an early extra session of the new congress to enact farm relief and tariff legislation.

The word that Mr. Hoover would return to the capital the latter part of February, left the question of his contemplated good will tour of the West Indies before March 4 in greater doubt than ever.

House leaders were determined, he said, to organize only four house committees for the extra session, those on ways and means for tariff, agriculture for farm relief. Rules to suggest definite hours for debate, and accounts to approve bills incurred during the extra session.

Committees Remain Same

Under this program, he explained, general legislation could be shut off unless it should be found desirable to pass urgent measures in the house under a suspension of the rules. He added that with hearings on the tariff to be closed February 25, the ways and means committee should have a bill ready by the last of March.

The speaker disclosed that Republican house leaders would call a party caucus about March 1 to name the four committees. Most of the new Republican members of the house will be here at that time to attend the inauguration.

There will be few changes in the personnel of any one of the committees and while they will be acting unofficially in advance of their formal election by the new house the speaker said there would be no question that both their personnel and their unofficial action would be ratified after congress convened.

ARMY TO MAKE DECISION TODAY

Expect High Council Will Review Booth's Note This Morning

London, Jan. 14—(AP)—Definite action on the continuance in office of General Bramwell Booth, commander of the Salvation Army, probably will come tomorrow, in the opinion of leaders of both factions of the organization. They agreed on this point after it had become known that the general's reply to the suggestion of the high council that he retire had been delivered late today at Sunbury-on-Thames.

Both sides said they were completely in the dark as to whether the aged leader would make a counter move against retirement when the high council reassembles. The reform element said, however, that if he declined to retire, the council would proceed at once to vote on his physical fitness to continue his duties.

They predicted that the ballot—if the case came to that—would be overwhelmingly in favor of a new head of the army and reform in its basic organization.

"If General Booth should say that he cannot retire because such action would be illegal, he would contradict his own words, said one of the leaders of the American delegation, "in the letter which he sent to the council last week, he said this:"

Resignation Requested

"Had I been asked to resign, it would have been a very different matter and I should not, on my own account, have much regretted the request."

"Furthermore, under his own regulations, retirement of officers of the army is compulsory when they reach certain age limits. Commissioners must retire at the age of 70, women commissioners at 65, staff officers at 65 and field officers at 60. Voluntary retirement before these ages can be granted because of ill health.

"General Booth is an army officer and there is no reason why he should be an exception to his own regulations.

Colonel Cunningham, new head of the intelligence department at international headquarters, derided allegations that the council had not acted on strictly constitutional lines.

"The council has proceeded under powers conferred upon them by the founder and by General Bramwell Booth himself," he said.

Magic and Medicine Declared Related

New York—Although medicine has climbed to a place among the sciences, Prof. Lynn Thorndike of Columbia university pointed out today that it still is related closely to magic.

"To distinguish science from magic is not so simple a task as some would have it," he declared, and suggested that "the medical prescription is the more efficacious for being unintelligible to the patient."

He asserted, however, that "the grand old principle of both medicine and magic, that what tastes and smells bad or is otherwise repulsive must be efficacious and 'good for you,' seems today to have been relegated to the limbo of faiths outworn—and with it, perhaps, both allopathy and homeopathy."

Addressing the History of Science society, of which he is president, at a joint meeting with members of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the medical history section of the New York Academy of Medicine, he held that magic was practiced long before medicine, but subsequently took over some of the "waste products" of scientific thought.

"Was the world and his milieu actually more topsy-turvy and terrifying to the believer in magic than to the modern believer in science?" he asked. "Did his amulets and charms keep him reassured?

"Whether man be wilful or merely behavioristic, he is still as in the past by nature a credulous and marvel-loving animal. While astrologers and physiognomists for centuries strove to classify the human species into certain types of physique, character and capacity, it cannot be said that the modern sciences of anatomy, physiology, psychology and anthropology — not to include psychiatry—have yet relieved the practicing physician from the necessity of dealing with his patient as a somewhat mysterious individual."

Tracing the evolution of great medical ideas over long periods of history, Dr. John C. Hemmeter of Baltimore asserted that their development had been affected not only by such environmental factors as wars, famines, pestilence, geologic disturbances and religious and political influences, but by the very changes which human consciousness has undergone.

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 14—(AP)—Led by Irving Nelson, Sophomore forward, the Iowa basketball quintet defated Minnesota in a western conference game here tonight 36 to 23. Iowa's passing attack, wild during the entire game—was the only sore spot of the winner's tactics.

Iowa led 19 to 12 at half time.

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 14—(AP)—Gus Sonnenberg, world's champion heavyweight wrestler, successfully defended his title for the first time tonight when he defeated Frank Yusko, in two straight falls.

The first fall came after 17 minutes and 14 seconds when Sonnenberg cut loose with his famous flying tackle. A head scissors accounted for the second fall after seven minutes and five seconds. Sonnenberg recently won the title from Ed (Strangler) Lewis in Boston.

Norwegian Prince Visits Home of His Bride-to-Be

Stockholm, Sweden, Jan. 14—(AP) Crown Prince Olaf of Norway, whose engagement to Princess Martha of Sweden was announced today, arrived in Stockholm soon afterward most informally and unheralded and walked straight to the residence of his future parents-in-law, Prince Charles and Princess Ilneboro.

The announcement came as a surprise to the people of Sweden and Norway, particularly since rumors of an engagement several weeks ago had been denied. The date of the wedding has not been fixed.

Princess Martha, who is not quite 28, is a typical modern princess, and like her sisters, is well educated, is trained as a nurse, has passed all kinds of examinations in household economy, is able to make her own gowns and is a good chum with all her former school fellows.

The couple are cousins.

Prince Olaf is well known in Sweden. He participated last summer in the international gold cup regatta at Sandhamn, winning several prizes. The young couple saw each other at Sandhamn after having first met at the marriage of Princess Astrid to Prince Leopold.

Milwaukee Clergymen Build Church in Day

Milwaukee—The clergy laid aside its prayerbooks, entered the ranks of the laity and with hammer and saw raised an edifice for a Milwaukee congregation between sunrise and sunset.

Several weeks ago the members of the Roosevelt Drive Presbyterian congregation announced its intention of building a new church in one day on their newly acquired site. They drafted the services of every Presbyterian minister in the city and obtained a building contractor who was a member of a Presbyterian congregation to supervise the construction.

At day break on a recent morning a group of ministers unloaded materials on the site of the new church. At 8:40 a. m. the walls were growing skyward. By 9:25 the walls were up and much of the interior work was underway.

Soon after noon the building was inclosed and before the afternoon sun had disappeared, the church had two brick chimneys and a tower. By evening the structure was ready for worship.

STEEL MAKERS ASK HIGH TAX

Representative of Giant Industry Pleads for Tariff Increase

Washington, Jan. 14—(AP)—The iron and steel industry, representing a capital investment of four and three-quarters billions of dollars and employing more than 1,500,000 men, today added its plea to those of smaller businesses for increased tariff protection.

Appearing on behalf of 95 per cent of the iron and steel producers, John A. Topping, vice president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, declared before the house ways and means committeee, considering tariff revision, that the industry had borne an annual addtional cost of $24,000,000 under the existing law and that higher duties were needed to maintain present wages and to further stabilize the business.

While no rates were proposed by the industry in general, several witnesses representing companies which are members of the institute requested that duties on pig iron, the basic product of the industry, be raised from $1.12½ to $3 a ton. They contended imports were having a depressing effect on the domestic market.

Proposes New Rate.

Topping declared a complete new schedule of duties would be filed later as the industry had not had time to determine exact duties desired.

The new schedules, however, he said, would provide for increased protection and would be based as far as practicable upon specific rates of duty. Where ad valorem rates were found necessary, he added, American wholesale prices at ports of entry would be proposed as the basis for the duties. Foreign valuations now are used.

Topping contended that high taxes, wages, and freight rates justified the proposal for higher steel duties and under cross examination declared that although only one-tenth of one per cent of domestic consumption was imported this was sufficient to affect the entire price structure of the United States.

He placed the production of steel ingots last year at 50,000,000 tons, or 20 per cent in excess of demand, and listed wage rates in the trade at 12 per cent higher than the average hourly rates in all other industries.

Steel bars, one of the principal products of the industry, Topping said, could be laid down at New York from Belgium and France at $1.80 a hundred pounds, compared with $2.24½ on domestic bars.

As a result of improvement in processes and devices, with the cooperation of labor in speeding up production, Topping declared, the industry has returned to investors modest profits, but earnings insufficient to prove returns sufficiently large to insure its future growth and development.

"While further progress will be made from time to time in reducing labor costs through improvement in practice and devices," he added, "we cannot hope that future enonomies will be sufficient to provide reasonable profits unless we have reasonable protection against the low freight rates by water to our seaboard points, and the low wage rates of the British Isles and continental Europe."

Topping listed coal miners wages at $2.02 to $2.65 a day in Great Britain compared with $6.26 to $9.65 in the United States; German Rolling Mill Heaters at $1.81 to $4.57 as against $7.60; British machinists $2.29 against $5.60; French Coppersmiths $1.05 against $7.20; German farm hands $0.56 against $2.86, and Italian building trades laborers $0.80 against $4.00.

SUBSTITUTE FOR BILL WELCOME

Measure to Replace Suggestion of Governor Will Be Considered

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 14—(AP)—Substitute proposals for his state income tax are being weighed with careful consideration, Governor Green said today.

He plans to go into a proposed theatre ticket tax of 5 cents, proposed by Speaker Fred R. Ming, is investigating suggestions that part of the state's highway revenues be diverted for the upbuilding of state hospitals and other institutions, and will study other proposals members of the legislature may offer.

The governor is not unalterably committed to the income tax idea.

He reiterated that while the income tax plan was evolved after long consideration as a solution of the finance problem, "perhaps the legislature can find a better one." If a better way is found, the governor said, he will give it his suport.

Both the suggestion that a portion of the highway funds be used for state purposes and that an amusement tax be employed to raise the more than $20,000,000 needed for buildings are certain to find vigorous opposition in the legislature. The cities of the state are pressing for an opportionment of highway funds, the counties are insisting they should not receive less than under the present system; the townships are clamoring for state aid and requests for highway improvements are continually swamping the administrative board. Highway department officials said they are opposed to highway fund diversions. These elements would undoubtedly be strongly assertive in a legislative controversy.

Speaker Ming said he favors the amusement tax plan over the highway proposal. On the other side theatre operators and others would combat the ticket tax proposal.

The governor plans to give the various suggestions thorough thought before submitting his income tax, or any other plan, to the legislature as an administration measure.

Purdue Defeats Chicago, 64 to 1

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 14—(AP)—Stretch Murphy, Purdue University's lanky basket ball center scored 26 points against Chicago here tonight, which, added to the efforts of his teammates, gave the Boilermakers a 64 to 16 victory. Murphy broke the record he set last week at Chicago by one point. Eight field goals and 10 out of 12 free throws made up his total.

Chicago managed to stay on fairly even terms during part of the first period, the score at one time being 13 to 10 for Purdue. From this point on, however, the Boilermakers counted 51 points to the Maroons' six. Purdue led at the half, 32 to 12.

LEGISLATORS IN CITY YESTERDAY

Committees Pay Visit Here on Junket of Upper Peninsula

Twenty members of the state senate and house of representative committees on conservation, fish and game and mining college spent last night in Escanaba. The party, traveling in three pullmans, came here from the Soo, arriving about 9:30 o'clock last night.

The committees are making a junket of the upper peninsula to look over the territory and state holdings under their supervision. First hand information gathered on this trip will be utilized in drawing up appropriation measures for these departments.

Rep. Ed Sargeant of Livery is chairman of the house committee on conservation and Senator Richards is chairman of the senate sub-committee.

The party left Lansing last week after adjournment of the two houses until Jan. 21, and since their departure have visited several points in the lower peninsula and several in the northern. The party were guests at the Soo yesterday before coming to this city. A scheduled stop at Manistique, to visit the Thompson hatchery, was ommitted because of a three hour delay incurred during the trip. The stop at Manistique will be made later.

The Escanaba Chamber of Commerce held an informal reception for the committee members at the Elks temple last night. Informal talks followed, with the committee members learning the opinions of some local sportsman on fish and game regulations and needed changes in the game laws.

The party will leave Escanaba early this morning and go to Iron Mountain. From there a visit will be paid to the Watersmeet hatchery and other points in the western part of the peninsula before returning to Lansing for reassembling of the state legislature.

The committee in charge of the reception was George Harvey, chairman, T. E. Strom, Dr. J. J. Walsh, Glenn Jackson, Peter J. Sullivan, Robert Pryal, Dr. A. S. Kitchen, J. J. Bartella, F. J. Hess, W. B. Roberge and M. J. Lang.

The Gladstone City club, headed by its president, Joe Sturgeon, assisted the Escanaba men in entertaining the party. The committees arrived at Gladstone by train and were taken to Escanaba by automobile.

Attempt for Slim Figures Ruined Starch Food Mart

Chicago, Jan. 14—(AP)—The publicized theory of theatrical producers that the ideal feminine figure should have a boyish slimness has done "almost irreparable harm" to certain branches of the vegetable industry, E. S. Briggs, manager of the American Fruit & Vegetable Shippers association, declared at the annual convention today.

Since the "boyish figure" idea has been picked up from professional exploiters of feminine pulchritude, the potato and rice market has been glutted, due to the fact that everyone avoided starch foods in the interest of slenderness, Briggs said.

Show Gov. Johnson Pardoned Murderer Without Inquiry

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 14—(AP)—Testimony that Governor Henry S. Johnston granted a full pardon to a convicted murderer and fugitive from justice without investigating his case, was presented late today to an investigating committee of the Oklahoma house of representatives, which plunged into an inquiry of executive affairs at its initial session.

Four witnesses were called to give details of the pardoning last December of R. D. Crosthwaite, convicted in 1918 of killing Thelma Lovejoy, young Oklahoma city school teacher. Crosthwaite has been at liberty since 1923, when he failed to return to the state penitentiary at the expiration of a leave of absence granted by J. C. Walton, who was impeached later that year and removed from the governor's office.

It was expected that inquiry into the Crosthwaite case would be resumed by the committee tomorrow.

AFGHAN KING LOSES THRONE

Attempt to Westernize Nation Results in Forced Abdication

London, Jan. 14—(AP)—The ambition of King Amanullah to place Afghanistan on a par with the modern industrial and cultural development of western countries has cost him his throne. A report today from Peshawar, northwest frontier province, India, confirmed in British official circles, said Amanullah had abdicated in favor of his brother, Prince Inayatullah, and had fled by air to Kandahar.

It was only last June that Amanullah returned home from from his tour of Europe full of enthusiasm for westernising his people as he had seen the Turkish people westernized by Mustapha Kemal. While his decrees met with some success in the area around the capital in the distant parts of the mountain kingdom and priestly influence stirred up a civil war. This gained strength, largely because the army pay was in arrears.

The king at first appeared successful, but the tide finally turned in favor of the rebels. Amanullah then tried to retrace his steps and withdraw the dated decrees. It was too late and the rebels emerged completely victorious.

Ammanullah reigned for almost ten years. Prince Inayatullah was born in October, 1888, and is thus the senior of Amanullah by four years.

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 14—(AP)—Official comment here today on the Chicago drainage decision was that it opened the way for direct negotiations with the United States by Canada to remedy the grievance.

In the case decided today at Washington, Canada had no status but in the fight between Illinois on one side and the States of Wisconsin, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan and New York on the other, the complaint of the latter was much the same as that of Canada.

MERCURY HITS 19 BELOW ZERO

Firemen Busy Answering Calls; Many Water Pipes Frozen

Fires caused by overheating of furnaces and stoves, hardships on automobile owners and freezing of water pipes accompanied the coldest spell of the winter experienced by Escanaba over the week-end. From 6 o'clock Saturday night until 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the mercury stayed below the zero mark, sliding down to its lowest point at 19 degrees below between 3 and 4 o'clock Monday morning.

The Escanaba fire department responded to a dozen calls over the week-end. About forty reports of frozen water meters were received yesterday at the city hall. Plumbers were kept busy with blow-torches, thawing out pipes.

Official readings taken by the U. S. weather bureau here showed that the mercury descended to zero at 6 o'clock Saturday night. It was 13.4 degrees below at 5 o'clock Sunday morning, and down to 19 between 3 and 4 o'clock yesterday morning. Then, the mercury started its upward climb, reaching zero at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and four above at 4 o'clock.

This was the coldest January weather since 1915 when the thermometer recorded 23 below on January 23. Last winter, cold weather set in early, 20 degrees below zero being registered on December 9.

"Light a Lucky and you'll never miss sweets that make you fat"

Constance Talmadge

INSTEAD of eating between meals . . instead of fattening sweets . . . beautiful women keep youthful slenderness these days by smoking Luckies. The smartest and loveliest women of the modern stage take this means of keeping slender . . . when others nibble fattening sweets, they light a Lucky!

Lucky Strike is a delightful blend of the world's finest tobaccos. These tobaccos are toasted—a costly extra process which develops and improves the flavor. That's why Luckies are a delightful alternative for fattening sweets. That's why there's real health in Lucky Strike. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

For years this has been no secret to those men who keep fit and trim. They know that Luckies steady their nerves and do not harm their physical condition. They know that Lucky Strike is the favorite cigarette of many prominent athletes, who must keep in good shape. They respect the opinions of 20,679 physicians who maintain that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many such are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say:—

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD OF A SWEET."

THE REAL CRIMINALS.

WE AMERICANS are justly famous for a good many things. But it is probable that one of our most striking traits is the way in which we strain at gnats and swallow camels.

Consider a few assorted facts, culled from the day's news.

In a large middle western city the police begin a "drive" to enforce all traffic laws to the very hilt. Parking violators will be fined. Jaywalkers will be haled into court. The driver who crosses an intersection on a yellow light or fails to signal a turn properly does so at great peril.

Meanwhile, in that same city, a vicious racketeering combine grips such trades as the cleaners, truckers and laundries. Speakeasies flood the town with bad liquor. Half a dozen recent homicides stud the police record book with "unsolved" jotted down after each one. Robberies are very frequent. The police seem unable to keep the underworld in hand.

In another city, a few hundred miles away, a woman comes to trial for disorderly conduct after spending three months in jail—and it develops that she was arrested solely because she appeared in the street without any stockings. That city, like the first, has dark problems of crime and violence to handle.

In still another city, farther east, the police squelsh a playlet put on by a college dramatic association because a couple of lines strike a tough sergeant as "suggestive"; they also forbid booksellers to retail a book which criticizes the courts and prosecutors of their state. And in that city ten city councilmen are accused of trying to force a $60,000 bribe from a business man, and the typical conditions of bootlegging, sporadic violence and lawlessness prevail in the underworld.

The police of these cities, presumably with the approval of the citizens, are straining at gnats and gulping down great, two-humped dromedaries. And these three cities are perfectly representative of American cities generally.

We seem to have a mania for tackling the unimportant things first. What if our homicide rates are the highest ever seen in a civilized land? What if the bootlegger and the rum runner corrupt our government and poison our citizens? What if honest business men have to pay graft to illegal combines? What if robbers and plug-uglies can bamboozle the police daily? We can at least keep pedestrians from walking across the street at the wrong time; we can at least clamp down on effervescent college lads who present a slightly Rabelasian play; we can at least jail for three months a woman who chooses not to wear stockings.

Probably the real reason for all of this is that we are lazy. We hate to take the effort necessary to clean up our cities, suppress crime and bring criminals to justice. Instead, we go after the petty violators. Such arrests salve our conscience and help us to forget that this great nation of super-efficiency has reached new depths of inefficiency in the matter of law enforcement and civic order.

ADJECTIVES.

IF YOU plan to write anything, from a newspaper article to a novel, you would do well to consider remarks made by the late Senator Albert J. Beveridge, whose recent "Abraham Lincoln" is hailed as a masterpiece of biography.

Beveridge, pointing out that he used as few adjectives as possible, said:

"Adjectives are like emergency medicine and must be given sparingly and seldom, like strychnine and other powerful stimulants. Adjectives often employed mean little or nothing. They are drugs that blur vision in the reader and save the writer the toil of description. Great writers are not victims of the adjective habit."

Plain, unadorned writing is always the most forceful. This is a good thing for everyone to remember, from cub reporter to historian.

DISCARDING MILK BOTTLES.

THE OLD glass milk bottle, a feature as characteristic of modern civilization, in its way, as the skyscraper, may be doomed.

New York dairies have introduced a new cardboard container. This affair, a glazed, water and moisture proof, cone-shaped arrangement, has the approval of the state board of health, is much cheaper than the glass bottle and can be thrown into the wastebasket after the milk is used. According to early reports, it seems to be giving complete satisfaction both to customers and dairymen.

Life won't seem quite the same if we don't have the early morning "clink clink" of milk bottles to penetrate our dreams and warn us that it is almost time to get out of bed.

ACCIDENTS AND DRIVERS.

VERY few traffic accidents are caused by defective mechanisms. Most of them are due to the driver.

This is brought out in a survey by the National Safety Council, just made public. The survey shows that only about 10 per cent of all traffic accidents can be blamed on physical and mechanical causes—including defects in the road or inclement weather. The rest are laid at the door of the motorist himself.

Automobiles have improved marvelously in the last decade or so, but the driver has remained stationary. It will travel as fast as anybody wants it to. It will stop quickly, if handled right. Its intricate parts seldom give way under strain.

But the driver is right where he always was. Until he learns caution, common sense and consideration for the rights of others, we will continue to have a disgracefully high list of traffic casualties.

CHAPTER XI.

A few days later Maizie went down town for a brief hour. Her arms, when she returned, were full of envelopes that bulged with a hundred booklets. She shook their contents on Ashtoreth's bed, smothering the soft pink blankets in a drift of gay colored pamphlets.

Little books with green covers and red covers. And covers of sky blue and flaming orange.

"Cruise lit-rachur!" said Maizie. "My dear, it's more thrilling than Edgar Wallace!"

"Cruise literature! Mother-Maizie, are you crazy?"

Maizie settled herself comfortably and began to sort her treasures.

"You can go to Bermuda," she announced triumphantly, "round trip for $65!"

"Not really!"

Ashtoreth's eyes sparkled.

"Of course, that doesn't include hotels," admitted her mother. "But only $65—just think, dear! Four days on the ocean—that's—how much is it a day, honey?"

"Sixteen dollars and a quarter. But that's only the beginning, Mother," protested Ashtoreth. "And I'm not going to spend all that money, so you can just gather up all your pretty little books, darling, and stop your blessed scheming."

But Maizie was not so easily disheartened.

"Well, here's a trip to Havana and Panama," she offered. "Or perhaps you'd like to go just to Havana, dear. Maybe that wouldn't cost so much."

"Havana's fearfully expensive," instructed Ashtoreth. "That's where all the rich Americans go to get drunk."

* * *

Maizie shuffled her booklets.

"Havanas out, then," she agreed amiably. "Oh, here's a lovely one, though! Listen—it's a brand-new cruise. Never made before. Haiti, Jamaica and Cuba. Twelve days—$120! That's only $10 a day, Ashtoreth. My, that's cheap. It says the boat is your hotel all the time. You go to four ports, and you never have a hotel bill. That sounds grand!"

"Haiti's a Black Republic," said Ashtoreth. "The people were all slaves once, but they rose up and killed their white masters. And made a kingdom of their own.'

Maizie looked at her admiringly.

"Its certainly wonderful," she declared, "the things you know, Ashtoreth! Well, we won't send you off to any black island, to get eaten alive by cannibals, honey!"

Ashtoreth laughed.

"Oh, they're not cannibals," she explained. "They're perfectly respectable black people, and their new president is a mulatto. It was ages ago they killed the whites. And you couldn't really blame them, either."

Maizie looked skeptical.

"Well, Haiti sounds sort of dangerous to me," she declared. "We'll find some white folks' places."

Big rain drops flew against the window pane. And a shrill little wind whistled mournfully around the corner. It was turning cold. Maizie had turned on the gas oven for a little extra heat. And made some tea to warm them. Now she threw a little bed jacket over Ashtoreth's shoulders, and a scarf about her own.

"It's a good day for it, Mother," admitted Ashtoreth, picking up a booklet. "This is great weather for the tourist agencies. But you're absolutely crazy, dear, to think that we can afford a trip. You know perfectly well it's absolutely impossible.'

Maizie dropped three lumps of sugar in her tea and stirred it mildly.

"'We'?" she said. "Who said anything about 'we,' I'd like to know?"

"Mother! You don't think I'd go without you? In addition to being the most selfish thing in the world it would be dreadfully poor form. Nice girls don't take trips alone. And anyhow, dear, I wouldn't leave you to shiver in Boston while I went off hunting warmth and sunshine—not for the world! Besides, we simply haven't the money."

* * *

Ashtoreth was very serious. "Let's not talk about it," she implored. "What's the sense of crying for the moon?"

Maizie smiled mysteriously.

"I've a surprise for you," she announced. "Doctor Henderson wants me to take a case for him! A nice old lady, Ashtoreth. She don't need a trained nurse, he says. And I suspect she don't want to pay for one anyhow. 'A good capable woman,' the doctor said. Someone who'd fix her nice and comfortable and fix up tasty little things to tempt her appetite. He's anxious I should take the position. Thirty dollars a week, Ashtoreth! And board and laundry, besides."

Ashtoreth's face clouded.

"But, Mother, you know I don't want you to work!"

Maizie reassured her hastily.

"It isn't accommodating, Lamb. It's nursing. And sort of housekeeping, too, I suppose. The old lady has help besides. And Doctor Henderson says I wouldn't be expected to do a thing but just wait on her. And a little cooking, besides. You know how I love to cook, Ashtoreth! Why, I'd love it, honey!"

Maizie was beaming persuasively.

"That's $140 for a month! And the janitor says he can sublet the flat all furnished for us, for $10 more than we're paying now. Why, Ashtoreth, you can go away, honey—and we'll be making money on you!"

Tears came to Ashtoreth's eyes. And a great lump in her throat.

"Darling!" she cried. "You're just the best mother in all the world."

"Then that's settled?"

Maizie was eager as a child.

"I told Doctor Henderson I'd let him know for sure this afternoon. The old lady has a nurse now. But she's letting her go. And I was to tell the doctor just how soon I could go to work. He says you'll be able to travel in another week. And I thought we might make arrangements for you to go away a day or two before I take the job. Then I could get the place cleaned up and go to work myself the first of the month. The janitor says he can rent it right away. He's got someone just waiting for the word."

Ashtoreth sat up in bed, hugging her little quilted jacket about her.

"You've planned everything, Mother!" she accused. "You and Doctor Henderson—you're simply in cahoots. But—oh, you darling mother—you're such an angel!"

Praise from her daughter always affected Mrs. Ashe. Now unbidden tears sprang to her eyes. She wiped them away furtively and smiled.

"It takes Mother to fix things!" she boasted. "Well now, young lady, will you please pick yourself a trip?"

Ashtoreth raised her arms.

"Kiss me," she commanded. "And, Mother, you're sure you want me to go? You won't miss me?"

Maizie blew her nose with more realism than romance.

"Of course I'll miss you," she admitted. "But I'll be glad every minute that you're gone. It may not be proper and all that for a young girl to go off by herself on a boat and traipsing around strange places. But I guess my Lamb won't be up to any monkey business. And who do we know that's going to talk? Besides, what do we care if they do? It would be plumb foolish for a girl to stay home just because some jealous old hens that never get a chance to go anywhere themselves say she ought."

* * *

Maizie went out soon, to shop for dinner. And when she had gone Ashtoreth slipped to her knees at the side of her bed.

"Oh, God," she prayed, "dear God, forgive me for being ashamed of my mother. Do anything you want to me, God—but please don't ever, ever hurt Mother! She's so good. And I'm so wicked. Oh, make me always be patient and generous with her as she is with me. I ought to be punished for being mean to her. But please, please don't punish me by hurting her! Anything else, God, but that!"

Then, having bargained with her Savior, Ashtoreth crept, shivering, back to bed. And, huddling beneath the blankets, cried quietly. Crying because Maizie was so good. Crying because she loved her . . . And because, to Hollis Hart, she had denied her.

"It would just serve me right, God," she admitted, "if I never saw Mr. Hart again as long as I live."

And then she vowed renunciation. To prove how much she loved her mother, she would never try again to interest Hollis Hart.

Next day she telephoned the office and talked to Mrs. Mason. Her position, she was assured her, would be open on her return.

"Now you've got to get some clothes," ordered Maizie. "A coat for the boat and pretty summer dresses."

"But they're only showing summer things for rich people!" lamented Ashtoreth.

It was Sadie, dropping in that evening, who proved the practicality of thrifty shoppers.

"Go to the bargain basements," counseled Sadie, "and get last summer's leftovers. They'll be marked down to next to nothing. And you can touch 'em up a little, with kerchiefs and things. Nobody's ever know the difference, Ash—you're so handy with a needle."

She insisted that Ashtoreth borrow a coat of camel's hair, soft as a kitten's ear. And a little brown suede hat that looked like Amelia Earhart's helmet. It hugged her ears smartly and matched the coat to perfection.

"I never wear them," insisted Sadie. "I'm no sports model. It takes class to look athletical, and my stuff's different. I tell you, Ash, they simply don't suit me."

Ashtoreth tried them on. And, finally, accepted the offer gratefully.

A few days later she and Maizie went shopping together.

ASHAMED OF TEARS.

Ashamed of tears? This world of ours
Might be as well ashamed of flow'rs,
Skies of their stars when night appears,
As mortals be ashamed of tears.
For then if ever, when we weep,
We waken who have been asleep,
And let the flood of feeling roll
Across the desert of the soul.

We live so much the drab, drab days,
We walk so much life's treadmill ways,
With heart so dumb, with mind so mute,
We're little better than the brute.
And then some day there comes some grief
That only tears can give relief.
And then the beauty floods our eyes
That God has put in rain-washed skies.

Ashamed of tears, when even He
Knelt weeping in Gethsemene?
We never see God quite so clear
As through the prism of a tear;
If purity we ever know,
It is our tears that make us so;
And only they need blush with shame
To whom emotion never came.

The Farmer's Not the Only One Troubled With a "Surplus" Problem!

Your Health

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

The disease commonly called shingles is known scientifically as herpes zoster.

A similar variety of this disease is herpes simplex, also called cold sores.

The type which occurs about the body following the root of a nerve is a more serious condition than the cold sore. In a discussion of this subject in Hygeia, Dr. Clark W. Finnerud quotes the old superstition that if shingles meet the patient will die, and, points out this is probably a perfectly safe aphorism because the nature of the disease is such that shingles probably never has encircled the body in any human being.

Shingles usually occurs following some infectious disease, but in many instances it is impossible to associate the condition with any definite disorder. Apparently it is associated with the infection of the root of one or more nerves which causes an inflammation of the nerve, pain, and an affection of the skin over the nerve.

The skin responds to the infection by an eruption of water blisters an inch or so wide resting on a swollen skin. The physician diagnoses the condition because the blisters are limited in their distribution to the area of skin served by a single nerve. Thus it is that the disease usually occurs only on one side of the body and not on both sides.

People with herpes zoster or shingles complain most of the burning pain in the area involved, and it is not infrequent for neuralgia to be associated with the skin eruption.

Organism Not Found.

There is much evidence to indicate relationship between this disease and chicken pox, but thus far the causative organism of neither disease has been discovered. Apparently the responsible organism is so small that it can be filtered through the most dense of clay filters, for this reason being called a filtrable virus.

When the inflammation subsides, the shingles disappear so that the chief attention of the physician in such cases is given to keeping the person in a state of good nutrition and free from infection.

LEGION CHIEFS VISITORS HERE

Conlon, Byers and Mrs. Laughton Attend Meet in City

Ray Conlon, Grand Rapids, state department commander of the American Legion, R. J. Byers, state adjutant, and Mrs. Katherine Stiles Laughton, Menominee, state president of the Legion auxiliary, were guests at a luncheon held in the Delta hotel yesterday noon under the auspices of Cloverland Post No. 82 of the American Legion and the auxiliary.

The state officials of the two organizations came here from Iron Mountain, where they attended the district conference of upper peninsula posts on Sunday. They are making a tour of the posts of the upper peninsula for the purpose of establishing a closer contact with the various units and to present the Legion's program for 1929.

Outlines Legion Program.

State Commander Conlon, in a stirring address to the war veterans assembled at the luncheon, declared that the American Legion's program of rehabilitation, welfare, Americanization and membership would be continued during the year with renewed vigor.

"Our rehabilitation work, consisting of the care of the ex-service men who are suffering from the ravages of the world war, must go on," Commander Conlon said. "We should be always ready to give assistance to those men who are disabled.

"In our Americanization work, we have to start with public education, principally among the youth of the nation. The American Legion is sponsoring the Boy Scout movement, fostering the junior baseball activity among the boys and other projects to provide healthful recreation for the children. We believe that if we can teach boys to play fairly and lose fairly, with the true spirit of sportsmanship, they will develop into true gentlemen and also fine, upright citizens.

Membership Important.

"Membership is a vital factor in our organization. We are enjoying a steady increase in membership, and we hope the time will come when every world war veteran will be a Legionaire. We must have membership in order to carry out effectually our important program. You Legionaires should talk to the veterans, who are not members, and get them to join. Sell the Legion to yourself, and it will be the easiest thing in the world to sell it to the other man."

Tom Beaton Honored.

In opening his talk, Commander Conlon presented in behalf of the members of the Cloverland Post No. 82 a past commander's charm to Tom Beaton, Jr., as a token of the esteem in which he is held by the local Legionaires. Mr. Beaton, who always has been active in Legion work, served as commander of the Cloverland post last year.

Mr. Beaton acted as toastmaster at the luncheon meeting. Brief talks were given by John Peller, present commander, R. J. Byers, state adjutant, and Carl Weidenhofer, Sault Ste. Marie, Eleventh district committeemen.

Mrs. Laughton, president of the state legion auxiliary, addressed a meeting of women of the city at Grenier's hall after the luncheon. She told of the achievements of the organization in the past and outlined the program for future endeavor.

Iron Mt. Meeting.

The Escanaba Legionaires, who attended the district conference at Iron Mountain, on Sunday, reported that the meeting was highly successful. More than two hundred war veterans were in attendance. It was decided to hold the Upper Peninsula Reunion at Iron Mountain on July 1 to 3. At the business session held after the noon-day banquet at the Milliman hotel, several important matters were discussed. There will be no general solicitation throughout the upper peninsula for advertising for the Legion yearbook, it was announced. If a program of the convention is printed it will be financed by the Iron Mountain post, which will entertain the U. P. Legionaires.

Albert H. Cyr Is Named Secretary of Kiwanis Club

Albert H. Cyr, manager of the Western Union, was appointed secretary of the Kiwanis club at the meeting of the directors held yesterday, at the close of the regular luncheon meeting. He succeeds Lloyd Walker of Cloverland Commercial College, who served two years as secretary of the club.

Rev. Carl E. Berger, who represented the club at the mid-winter meeting of the trustees of the Wisconsin-Upper Michigan district, held last week in Milwaukee, gave an interesting report of that session.

George Nolden, president, named the following standing committee chairmen for the year: Program—J. J. Bartella; membership, E. G. Bennett; attendance, Lloyd Walker; reception, J. C. Byrns; house, S. R. Wickman; publicity, H. K. Rammel; finance, C. W. Malloch.

Torval E. Strom was named chairman of a special committee to handle details of the Escanaba members' trip to the international convention which will be held in Milwaukee in June.

The $4 was left in the open till while members of the office staff left the place, although a watch over the office was maintained. Late Saturday afternoon, the actor sneaked into the office and took the money. He was taken into custody by police, to whom he admitted the theft of $50 at Marquette. He made restitution for the amount stolen, and was permitted to leave the city without prosecution.

CRYSTAL FALLS LOGGER FREED

Herman Holmes Found Not Guilty of Slash Act Violation

The acquittal of Herman Holmes, Crystal Falls logger, charged with violation of the slash act, after a trial in justice court in Iron River Friday is of interest to local lumbermen. It was the first case of its kind in the upper peninsula.

The jury decided there was not sufficient evidence to warrant the conviction of Holmes on the charge, which was instituted by the conservation department.

Holmes was charged with failing to clean up slashings and debris, resulting from logging operations, within 100 feet from a public highway in Bates township, where he was engaged in logging during the 1927-28 season. The new slash act requires that loggers rid the premises within 100 feet of a roadway after logging operations.

Holmes testified in his own behalf that he instructed his employes to comply with the law, and said that it cost him $140 to do that work.

Boundry Question Up.

William Rigstad, who served the warrant on Holmes, and L. A. Johnson, of Iron River, connected with the state land department, declared on the stand that Holmes had violated the laws; that he failed to clean up tree tops, windfalls and debris from the roadside after he completed his 1927-28 operations.

After the two state representatives and Holmes had testified, it developed that there was some question as to the proper boundaries of the particular "forty" in which Holmes was logging. Holmes maintained that he complied with the law in the territory in which he logged, while Rigstad and Johnson claimed that the territory extended to a greater length. The question of the correct section line, the quarter marks and the bearing trees were discussed thoroughly.

Charles H. Watson, attorney for Holmes, attempted to show the slashings and piles of debris adjoining the highway in which Holmes was logging was left by a previous logger, and that his client made a bona fide attempt to comply with the law.

State Has Lawyer.

Leigh C. Caswell, prosecuting attorney, handled most of the case for the state, although he was assisted by M. M. Larmonth, of Lansing, an assistant in the attorney general's office. The state conservation department regarded the case as important for Attorney Larmonth was requested to be present.

Both Caswell and Larmonth, in their arguments to the jury, stressed at length the slash laws as a preservation of beauty along the highways and averting fire hazards.

That the case will prompt further litigation in the courts is a foregone conclusion, as the state conservation department is empowered, according to the slash act, to proceed with cleaning up the slashings and debris and charging the cost to the particular logger or owner of the holdings. If the logger or property owner fails to remit, the state may start a civil suit to recover the expense. This action would, of necessity, again bring in the criminal side of the case.

Mark Time.

Conservation officers are now marking time until the case of Albert O. Anderson, of Shawano, Wis., similarly charged, is heard, either next Monday or Tuesday. Anderson was engaged in logging in the same vicinity as Holmes, and made no attempt, it is alleged, to clean up the slashings. He will be represented by A. J. Waffen, of Iron River.

Anderson's case was also listed for hearing yesterday, but a continuance was granted when it was learned that he was called home because of the death of a relative.

Both Anderson and Holmes were notified by the state department to clean up the premises. The law requires that this work be done within thirty days after logging operations along a highway are completed.

German Lutheran Ministers Gather in City for Meet

The Lake Superior Pastoral conference will have their semi-annual meeting in this city this week at Salem Evangelical Lutheran church, South Twelfth street, Christ. A. F. Doehler, pastor. Most of the members arrived in the city Monday evening and the opening session will be held this morning.

The Ladies' Aid society will serve the meals to the visiting clergymen at the church parlors during their stay here.

This evening a communion service will be held, the service proper commencing at 7:45 o'clock. Rev. George E. Schroeder of Menominee will preach the sermon. This service will be conducted in the English language and is for the public.

Papers have been carefully prepared by several members of the conference and these will be read and discussed at the meetings. Other important matters will also be taken up and it is anticipated that the sessions will be very busy ones and much will be accomplished.

CEDAR DALE

School opened January 7, after a two weeks' vacation. Only one pupil, Florence Kemppanen, is absent because of influenza.

Only two families here escaped having the "flu." It is some time now since the last case developed, so it is probable that the epidemic is practically ended here. Not many were seriously ill, though Mrs. A. Salminen consulted doctors at Escanaba.

F. Kivisto substituted as mail carrier for Charles Kemppainen last Saturday.

Wilho Mattonen made a business trip to Cornell last Friday, being the first to break a road through the drifts accumulated during the week.

J. Klemola is negotiating with Charles Anderson for the purchase of the latter's home. The change of ownership will take place in the spring.

Several of the young people of the neighborhood met at the Lundgren home last Friday evening for a "pancake party." Both entertainment and refreshments were secured from the preparing and easting of the delicious indigestibles.

Oscar Fors is delivering twenty cords of hardwood to the school this week, also several loads of kindling.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Tapininen entertained Mrs. Kivi and family and Mr. and Mrs. Lundgren New Year's afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Salminen had as their guests Tuesday evening, Mrs. Kivi and family, Miss Freda Anderson, Mrs. A. Mattonen and Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Lundgren.

Miss Freda Anderson was hostess to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kemppainen and family and the Kivi family Sunday evening.

On Friday afternoon, Mrs. V. A. Lundgren entertained Mrs. S. Kivi, Mrs. M. Tapaninen, Mrs. O. Fors, Mrs. A. Salminen, Mrs. J. Kivisto and Mrs. A. Mattonen.

Victor Johnson of Watson has begun work at the Fors camp, near here.

Miss Mayme Kivisto of Northland returned to her work after spending Christmas vacation here.

School and S. S. Notes.

A newspaper project is occupying the interest of the school now. The Citizens League met to appoint officials for the newspaper. The first edition will be ready in about a week.

A "Red and Blue" Sunday school contest is being planned here. It is to begin January 13, when captains will be appointed and sides chosen. Attendance, new members, preparations of lessons and other duties will earn points for the contestants. The losing side will entertain the winners.

The Bible study class which was to meet at Miss Anderson's home last Wednesday, was postponed on account of the bad weather. The class intends to meet every Wednesday evening. The study will complete a course in teachers' training begun two years ago. Diplomas for Sunday school teaching will be granted then by the American Sunday School Union. Those who took the first course are Helen Saliminen, Jennie and Esther Kivisto, Freda Anderson and Mrs. Lundgren. Two others, Anna Klemola and Irene Tapaninen, will attend the classes this year.

Earl Prefers Name of Wallop.

Traveling as Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Wallop, the Earl and Countess of Portsmouth recently arrived in England from New York. He has spent 40 years ranching in Wyoming, where he owns 3,000 acres. He became an American citizen in 1906.

Former Escanaba Man May Become Oregon Governor

A. W. Norblad, former Escanaba attorney who for some years has been prominent in politics in the state of Oregon, may be governor of that state before the year is over, according to an article which appeared, recently, in a coast newspaper. The article says:

"A. W. Norblad, governor of Oregon?

"That sounds a little out of line at present but 'if' some very possible 'ifs' are fulfilled during the next year, the statement may be an actuality before 1929 has given way to 1930.

"A. W. Norblad apparently has a cinch on the office of president of the Oregon senate.

"If he gets it and if Senator Charles McNary is given the agriculture portfolio in the Hoover cabinet as seems very probable; and if in that event Governor I. L. Patterson is appointed as United States senator from Oregon to fill the McNary vacancy, State Senator A. W. Norblad of Astoria will automatically, as president of the senate, step into the governorship vacated by Patterson.

"To support these 'ifs' it is well known that the McNary appointment is under consideration by Hoover and it is almost as well known in that event has no objection, even a desire, to step into the United States senate and probably has the backing to get the appointment.

"So it may not be in the far distant future that we will write 'A. W. Norblad, governor of Oregon without the quotation marks and without any qualifying 'ifs'."

TRAIN NO. 101 JUMPS TRACK

None Injured in Derailment of Flyer Near Pensaukee

A broken rail caused the derailment of Chicago and North Western passenger train No. 101 near Pensaukee, Wis., at 3:20 o'clock yesterday morning. None of the passengers were injured, although some were considerably shaken up. Damage to the equipment was slight.

The train was traveling at a moderate rate of speed because of bad track conditions due to the cold weather. The eight cars and tender were derailed, but the locomotive remained in place.

A special train, composed of two coaches, a baggage car, and a diner, was dispatched out of Escanaba along with the wrecker after the accident. About seventy passengers were taken off train No. 101 and brought north on the special. It arrived here about 12:50 noon. The wrecked train was not replaced on the track until about nine o'clock last night.

Train No. 217, Chicago passenger train which is due in Escanaba at 2 p. m., did not arrive here until about 8 o'clock last night. It was forced to detour on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway tracks to Oconto in coming to Escanaba.

Engineer Elmer Stacy was running the engine of Train 101.

Local dairymen were late in their deliveries of milk and cream because of the derailment of the train, which every morning brings dairy products from the farmers along the line. Quite a number of Escanaba residents were passengers on the train. It was pay-day on the North Western yesterday, and those who went to the paymaster's office early in the morning were disappointed for the pay checks were on the derailed train.

GOOD PERFORMANCE WITH ECONOMY

THE new Ford is more than a new automobile. It is the expression of an ideal—an ideal that looks to bringing the benefits of modern transportation to all the people.

Because of this purpose, the price is low and great care has been taken to insure economy of operation and up-keep. Few features are of greater importance to millions of motorists.

Conservative figures show that the new Ford averages 20 miles per gallon of gasoline, with many Ford owners reporting greater mileage on long trips. Oil consumption is also low per hundred miles. There is a considerable saving on tires due to the balance of the car, ease of steering and perfected wheel design.

All tires used on new Ford cars and recommended for replacement are specially built by leading tire manufacturers according to specifications laid down by the Ford Motor Company. Mechanical up-keep is low because of simplicity of design and the enduring quality that has been built into every part.

Large corporations have proved Ford economy

Definite evidence of the economy of the new Ford is shown in the repeated and growing purchases by Federal and city governments, by police departments, and by large industrial companies which keep day-by-day cost records.

The new Ford has been chosen only after exhaustive tests covering every feature of automobile value and performance—from the time of purchase to the final trade-in. Here the Ford policy of not making yearly changes serves to protect and maintain the investment of every Ford owner. All improvements in the new Ford are made so that present owners may take advantage of them quickly and at low cost.

The economy of good service at a fair price

The availability of Ford dealers throughout the world and close factory supervision of all service are additional reasons for the economy of the new Ford.

It has always been our belief that a sale does not complete the transaction between us and the buyer but establishes a new obligation on us to see that his car gives him service. We are as much interested in his economical operation of the car as he is in our economical manufacture of it. For that reason we have installed a system of controlled service to take care of all Ford car needs in an economical and improved manner. We wish all Ford owners to know what they are entitled to in this respect so that they may readily avail themselves of this service.

Ford service more important than sales

This service begins with proper instruction when you buy the car and includes a free inspection at 500, 1000 and 1500 miles. It continues as long as you are a Ford owner.

No matter where you live or where you go, you will never be very far from a Ford dealer who has been specially trained and equipped to give you courteous, intelligent, economical service.

The cost of new parts is low because of the established Ford policy of doing business at a small margin of profit.

The purpose of Ford Service is identical with that for which the car itself was built—to help you get many thousands of miles of pleasant, enjoyable motoring at a minimum of trouble and expense. "Good performance with economy" is the reason for the unusual value that is brought to you in the new Ford.

Gifted Girls Who Write Songs

In the American Society Of Authors and Composers Are 600 Members, 25 of Whom Are Women . . . This Explains How Those Feminine Pioneers Won Fame Where Men Said They Could Not Succeed

Composer Mabel Wayne. . . . Her "In a Little Spanish Town" was an accident, but that song and the even more popular "Ramona" put her on Easy Street.

JUDGING from the number of manuscripts that reach that region of New York known as Tin Pan Alley, there isn't a man or woman from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from Canada to the Gulf, with a soul so dead that he never hath said to himself, "I guess I'll write a song."

The women, however, seem to be in the minority; most of the names appearing on the title pages of popular songs are Jimmy or Sammy or Bennie or Gus. Only once in a great while will you find a Mable or a Mary, but when the name indicates that a woman is responsible for the lyric or the music, it is a pretty safe bet that the song will reach popular favor.

The American Society of Authors and Composers boasts some 600 members, and only 25 are women. Why is it that in this seemingly feminine profession, there are so few women writers?

Song publishers have a theory. They say that publishing music is a business demanding the same marketing and exploitation given any mercantile commodity, and that more popular songs are written by men because the men are in a position to take much of the exploitation on their shoulders. They are on the ground and "in the know" so to speak, and can foresee the demand for a certain type of popular song.

Having written it, the next step is the exploitation, which requires personal work back stage with the vaudeville headliners, visits to night clubs and public gatherings where the song plugger broadcasts the latest number. All this is separate and apart from the regular paid advertising in periodicals.

Not infrequently the male writers of popular songs double in the plug, which means they appear publicly and sing their own numbers. Some publishers feel that in this method of exploitation, a woman writer would be out of place.

PUBLISHERS gladly consider the work of the women but state quite frankly that the song is obliged to be superior in every way to the work of the men, if it is accepted for publication.

This may account for most of the songs on the market that have been written by women, being in the hit class. A man can write a song, but a woman must write a good song if she would intrigue a publisher.

Mabel Wayne, whose "In a Little Spanish Town" was followed by the terrific hit, "Ramona," had the advantage of knowing what would please her audiences, as well as the ability to compose.

Miss Wayne, who was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., less than 25 years ago, had three years stage training. As a musician, she was popular in vaudeville, and she continually created new numbers to use on her programs.

She frankly admits that "In a Little Spanish Town" was an accident. She could see that fox trot music was losing ground, and the cycle was turning toward the waltz.

It was her ambition to write a melody that would keep the waltz tempo, and have a syncopated rhythm. In other words, a jazz waltz.

While working at the piano, she hit upon a theme that to her sounded typically Spanish—a tango motive, with a waltz tempo. She took the finished idea to her publisher, who saw the song's possibilities. And keeping the lyric in line with the music resulted in the popular song hit "In a Little Spanish Town."

Having written one successful Spanish number, the publisher thought her the logical composer for the theme number to be used in the motion picture "Ramona," whose popularity needs no comment. It has exceeded the expectations of the publisher, made the young lady financially independent, and established her as a recognized composer. One smashing success like "Ramona" is enough to put a composer on Easy Street.

Among song writers, there is always the question as to whether the music or the lyric is responsible for a song's popularity.

Marian Gillespie. . . . The lyric for "Heart of a Rose" started her on her way to the title: "Queen of the Rose Songs."

Dolly Morse, who under the name of Dorothy Terriss wrote the lyric for "Three O'Clock in the Morning," feels that up to the present, the lyric writer has not been given proper credit.

There is good reason to have respect for Mrs. Morse's opinion. She is a lyric writer with so many song hits to her credit that she ranks in the American Society of Authors and Composers with Irving Berlin and the late Victor Herbert, and is the only woman in the society to enjoy this distinction.

Confining her efforts entirely to lyric writing, Mrs. Morse writes verses for composers, and sets verses to melodies already written, which is not an easy task.

One of the youngest of women composers is Muriel Pollock. Muriel's first attempt at writing came at the age of 17, while she was still in high school. She was an ambitious young person, and music was her inspiration. Her first musical vehicle was an entire show called "Pom Pom," which was produced in New York.

Her latest venture is another musical comedy score which has been accepted by the Shuberts, and is now in rehearsal. The new show, whose tentative title is "Well, Well Well!" was written for the book by Montague Glass, the creator of those charmingly amusing characters, Potash and Perlmutter.

Still in her early twenties, Miss Pollock bids fair to become one of the best writers of musical comedies. At present, she is the only woman in the field.

Miss Pollock insists that women must have allied art interests if they would compose acceptably and at length. She tersely writes an entire score through feeling. "It's the gorgeous spontaneity that brings out the best," she says. "Too much study, or too great musical knowledge, takes away the natural musical instinct, and the finished product resolves itself into an attempt, rather than a result. Write from the emotions, rather than the head," is Miss Pollock's advice.

WRITING from the heart has given another woman writer the sobriquet "Queen of the Rose Songs."

When Marian Gillespie wrote the lyric for "When You Look in the Heart of a Rose," referred to always as "Heart of a Rose," she was approached by male composers asking for similar lyrics. As a result, other rose songs were born—"Soul of a Rose," "Love Is a Rose," "Raggedy Rose," and "Rose o' My Heart."

Tiring of rose writing, she took gardens as a theme, and her latest contribution to the popular song bouquet is "In a Japanese Garden."

Miss Gillespie has no set ideas about writing. She says you write or you don't. If you have it in you to write songs, you'll write them in spite of yourself. Encouragement or discouragement mean nothing.

Charles K. Harris told her years ago, when she inflicted some of her first song lyrics on him, "A woman can't write a popular song. She may be able to write poetry, or even pretty verse—but there is a knack in song writing that a writer has, or has not, as the case may be. You'll never be able to write a song. Your verse is above the average, but, it doesn't sing!"

The following year, Miss Gillespie was able to return to the famous writer of "After the Ball," with her first song, "Heart of a Rose," then the hit of a continent and well on its way toward financial success.

In extending his congratulations, Mr. Harris remarked, "You are the first person who ever returned to thank me for my help or advice. It shows you are thorough; you will go far."

The writer of "Heart of a Rose" has proven her thoroughness. "Japanese Garden" was written four years ago. She had faith in her lyric, and in Wilbur Chenoweth's music, and refused to see the number sink into innocuous desuetude. Four years is a long time to wait for a song's fulfillment, but the end justified the patience.

Not so long ago the successful writers of popular songs met to discuss the advisability of calling Tin Pan Alley by a name more dignified.

Several suggestions were considered, and Amy Ashmore Clark offered "Heart-Break Hollow!"

The idea was met with laughter and applause, and though it was not adopted, every writer present appreciated the significance of the name.

Jessie Deppen, composer of "Oh Miss Hannah" . . . wrote "Japanese Sunset" away from the piano.

Amy Ashmore Clark. . . . A real Tin Pan Alley girl, she is famed for her high-class ballads, concert numbers.

Amy speaks from experience, for she is a real Tin Pan Alley (or Heart-Break Hollow) girl, having been the general manager of a music publishing house in Manhattan's famous melody lane.

Her work as an author and composer first took her to this firm. They recognized her ability as a business woman as well as an artist—a rare combination—and offered her a real job with a salary attached, instead of a contract with elusive royalties.

Mrs. Clark thought she saw an opportunity to get her songs over, and she accepted the offer.

The connection gave her an insight into more than appeared on the surface. Day after day she was obliged to listen to impossible song compositions of embryo song writers who entered her office with high hopes which were usually dashed to earth in a single sentence,

It was a difficult job, but it gave her an education. The creator of a song gives only the song. But if that song doesn't click with all of the effort put behind it, the publisher is out his time and money. It behooves publishers to select song material with great care.

Getting into the business end of the game gave Mrs. Clark an insight to the publisher's problem, but it also defeated her purpose. There were so many scripts and lyrics to be read that she was obliged to forget her own interests.

It was not until she left the publishing end of the business that she began writing again, and then only for the concert market.

Amy Ashmore Clark has that musical instinct that is recognized in genius. She has little or no musical education, improvises her melodies at the piano, and being unable to write manuscript, she has to employ a professional musician to transfer those melodies to paper. Recently a cycle of Japanese songs of her composition were translated into three languages, so that foreign artists could use them on their recital programs.

Mrs. Clark is a member of the Musicians Club, which stamps her as a writer of the first rank.

JESSIE DEPPEN, on the other hand, made her entrance to song writing through her association with a music house.

Her work had nothing to do with publishing, however, She promoted the sale of music over the counter. So her business association in no way cramped her style.

Having been sufficiently grounded in music to permit her to teach, Miss Deppen, through her teaching, made one interesting observation. Every little girl studying music, has a desire, fostered by her parents, to "show off."

After three or four lessons, the child will invariably approach the teacher with "My mother wants to know how soon can I play a piece?" There is always the attraction of the limelight, even at a tender age.

Women stay away from song writing as a profession, because writing a song gives them no opportunity to stand in the spot. They can see themselves singing before an appreciative audience, but there is no glamor about writing a song.

The music writer is submerged by his work. There is no limelight. No applause, and no apple-sauce. If he fails in one song, he is just as enthusiastic about a new creation. In Miss Deppen's opinion spontaneity is a valuable asset for the song writer.

Miss Deppen studied with Adolph Weidig in Chicago. Her musical training is all American, although she creates some decidedly oriental melodies that have the spirit of the East.

"Japanese Sunset," one of her best known songs, was written in the wee sma' hours of the morning, independent of the piano. The melody awakened her from a sound sleep, and wouldn't be quieted. She got up and put the air on paper, and the next morning tried it over on the piano to discover that she really had something worth while.

Miss Deppen's numbers are featured in all the high class motion picture houses. "Elinore" was interpolated in "Wings" and the Capitol, Roxy and Paramount, three of New York's largest movie houses, made special settings for the "Japanese Sunset" number.

TO date, there is no team of women writers turning out popular songs, because women have a musical sense, while men have a business sense. Women are not as fundamentally aggressive as men, and are too sensitive to rebuffs to make a successful business of song writing.

At least that is the opinion of Vaughn de Leath, who started her song writing career at the age of 13, in San Francisco.

With Miss de Leath, it was a case of blissful ignorance of the ethics of the game, and she made a wholesale business of the publisher.

There were then 13 recognized music publishing houses in the United States, and Vaughn made 13 copies of her song, "Don't You Care." With each manuscript she sent a letter stating, "This song has been sent to 13 music publishers, and the best offer wins."

Sometimes the tremendous audacity of ignorance wins; but not always. It did in Miss de Leath's case, however, for a Boston publisher took the song, which was the impetus that eventually landed the writer in New York.

New York was a difficult oyster for her to open. The publishers were unsympathetic, her funds were getting low, and she was a long way from home.

About the time of her arrival in New York, radio was commanding attention. It had been sufficiently perfected to warrant experimental stations, and these were communicating with ships at sea.

Miss de Leath, in addition to her ability to write a creditable lyric and good music, possessed a sweet voice, and was fortunate in meeting the operator of an experimental station, and securing an opportunity to broadcast her songs to maritime audiences.

She made a place for herself with radio development, and the past eight years Vaughn de Leath has been a feature on radio programs, and has a wide acquaintance in the homes of radio fans. Publishers are willing to listen to her numbers now, and to give her every encouragement.

One of Vaughn de Leath's best known concert numbers is "Wild Geese," with a lyric from the pen of the late poet, Gordon Johnstone. Two songs that have found favor with radio audiences, have de Leath lyrics—"My Lover Came Riding," and "God Bless Thee, Love."

The business of plugging song hits that set the nation to singing and its jazz orchestras a-jingle with a new tune is, at the moment, pretty much a man's game, but the world would have lost many a great popular melody except for these gifted girls who write songs.

Vaughn de Leath. . . . Has sung her own songs to millions.

Dolly Morse, nee Terriss . . . wrote the lyric for "Three O'Clock in the Morning," is ranked with Victor Herbert and Irving Berlin for her long string of song hits.

Muriel Pollock. . . . When she was 17 she wrote the score for "Pom Pom," a musical show that pleased New Yorkers.

DEFENDANT IS CHARGED WITH FOUR FELONIES

Manistique Man Has Four Convictions on Dry Law Violations

A second charge, that of being a fourth offender and liable to life imprisonment under the Michigan criminal code, was filed Friday against Tony Papich of Manistique, who is scheduled to appear in circuit court at Manistique this week on a liquor law violation charge.

The last offense charged against the local man, and for which he has been held at the county jail awaiting trial, is dated October 26, 1928. Previous to that date, records show that he was convicted four times of felonies, three in federal court and one in circuit court. All were for infractions of the prohibition law, and were recorded on the following dates:

April 12, 1920, Circuit court.
April 16, 1921, U. S. District court, Marquette.
July 16, 1921, Federal, Marquette.
October 22, 1924, Federal, Marquette.

Information establishing the four previous convictions was filed by Prosecuting Attorney V. I. Hixson, and Sheriff J. M. Hewitt brought Papich before Justice W. G. Stephens. Papich was arraigned under act No. 175, Michigan Public Acts of 1927, and waived examination. He was placed under bond of $1,000, which he did not furnish, and returned to the county jail to await disposition of his case before Judge H. W. Runnels this week.

This is the first time the fourth felony provision has been involved in local court and also the first time in the upper peninsula.

FLU EPIDEMIC NOW SWEEPING WHOLE COUNTRY

Is Milder Than in 1918, But Emergency Demand for Vicks Breaks All Records.

The influenza epidemic which broke out late in October on the Pacific coast has spread with startling rapidity until now practically every section of the country is affected.

Although the flu itself is not so serious as in 1918, authorities stress the importance of taking every possible precaution for fear of the complications which invade the weakened system after a flu attack.

They urge especially prompt treatment of every cold, as colds lower the body resistance and make it easier for germs of flu or pneumonia to get a foothold.

That the public is heeding this warning is indicated by the phenomenal demand for Vicks Vapo-Rub, the famous external treatment which leaped to fame almost overnight during the 1918 epidemic.

In spite of tripled capacity, the Vicks laboratories are once more operating night and day to meet the emergency, and more than 375,000 jars are now being produced every 24 hours.

SNOW SCOOPER WIDENS STREET AT MANISTIQUE

Work Started in Zippy Temperature; Tractor Is Effective

Taking advantage of the Sunday lull in traffic, the Manistique city snow plow crew began clearing away surplus snow from the side of the streets in the business section, giving a wider avenue for vehicles. There were but few parked cars to interfere Sunday, and the work made rapid progress. Sub-zero breezes greeted the workers.

The city's light caterpillar tractor and snow scraper are proving highly effective in transporting the snow piles accumulated from sidewalk and street. The tractor is first driven "criss-cross" over the top of the pile to break it down and loosen up the snow, then the scraper is rehitched, and the snow is carried away to a vacant lot or other convenient dumping ground.

This widening of streets will be carried out throughout the business section this winter.

AT GERO TODAY

When a beautiful blonde girl sets out to look for trouble usually finds it and so do the people with whom she comes in contact. Esther Ralston does everything from making faces at policemen to kidnaping a judge in her Paramount picture "Love and Learn" which appears at the Gero theatre today.

Among other things the dynamic golden haired star does in this picture are drive an automobile through a police station window, fire a revolver in a crowded courtroom, overpower a matron and escape from jail and foil a plotted frame-up on the judge she had kidnaped.

Of course there is a serious purpose behind all of these escapades. The star is trying to keep her father and mother together. She thinks that if she occupies all of their moments trying to keep her out of jail they won't have time to carry out the separation proceedings they have started. Then in a few days, when her father's annual attack of hay fever comes along, there will be no more thought of separation. The old gentleman knows good care when he is receiving it and a trained nurse was never like the wife.

Lane Chandler, the handsome giant who recently thrilled lovers of western pictures by his feats with the six shooter and in the saddle, takes the part of the dignified young judge who learns about women in such startling fashion. Hedda Hopper has the part of the mother who can cure her husband's hay fever but who finds it hard to put up with his irritable disposition. Claude King is the father and Helen Lynch is the blonde vampire who tries to ruin the judge with her charms.

While celebrating their diamond wedding anniversary, Mrs. Charles Harle, of London, said that the secret of their long happy married life was that her husband had always been a "stay-at-home" man.

Manistique Man Vice President Royal Oak Bank

The former Manistique resident is also a member of the board of directors.

Resources of the Royal Oak Bank are given as $1,527,136.50 in their satements as of Dec. 31, 1928.

THEATRES

AT THE RIALTO

Lois Moran, playing the feminine lead opposite Lawrence Gray in "Love Hungry" for Fox Films, is now doing the kind of role she visualized in Paris several years ago. Miss Moran, who has played "sweet girl" roles in most of her pictures, was almost completely transformed by Albert Ray, Fox director, when he made "Publicity Madness," in which Lois worked with Edmund Lowe.

In that production, Miss Moran had her hair bobbed and was rigged out, from head to heels, in modern apparel. This pleased her immensely, and her ambition becoming clearer, gave her still greater comfort. Some day she was going to do a chorus girl! She simply would not be happy until her dream was realized.

The assignment came more speedily than she had anticipated. Victor Heerman, discussing his new story with James Ryan, Fox casting director, informed this official that he wanted a girl who could "do a chorus girl and do it quite differently."

"All right," said Ryan; "you need look no further than our own studios. We have the girl and she wants to do the part. In fact, she has dreamed the part for six years."

"You'll do," he said crisply, when he met Miss Moran. "See me tomorrow about the costumes."

"And you don't even want me to take the usual tests?"

"No tests for you," said Heerman. "You are the girl, and that's that."

And so Lois won a role for Christmas that she had coveted all her life.

She will be seen in "Love Hungry" at the Rialto today only.

SUPT. CHENEY CLUB SPEAKER

Interesting Talk on School Tax at Rotary Club Meeting

"Equalization of the School Tax Burden in the State of Michigan" was the topic of an intensely interesting talk given Monday noon at the Gladstone Rotary club luncheon by Supt. Ray E. Cheney of the Escanaba public school.

The subject was well developed and well presented, one of the finest heard here on a subject in which Gladstone is vitally interested.

Supt. Cheney in his introduction traced the development of public school education in this country and compared it with that of England and other European countries, emphasizing the fact that American builds its system around the child while the European countries fit the child to the system.

He told of the development of school finances in this country, to a system by which they are supported by taxation which all people pay regardless of whether or not they have children in school. The system, he pointed out, started with the elementary and spread to the high schools, kindergartens, special subjects in the curriculum, supervision, compulsory education and now city colleges in the larger centers.

Only Half Way

"Public taxation goes only half way when it requires each community to support its own schools," Supt Cheney stated, "because where the property valuation is low, the tax is higher for the same education."

Illustrating this, the speaker cited Gladstone's school tax of $34 per $1,000, Escanaba's of $17, Detroit's of $6 or $7, the state's of $8.9, and that of some rural schools which is as high as $35 for just an eighth grade system.

"Justification for state support of education goes back to the point that education is a transportable commodity," he declared. "A person may be educated in Escanaba or in Gladstone and he may use that education in an industrial plant in Detroit."

Supt. Cheney, taking the Escanaba high school class of 1923 as an example, said that of 92 graduates, only 25 are still in Escanaba; eleven are in college with prospects of two of these to take up lines of work in Escanaba! two have died; and the majority, fifty-four are in other cities.

Should Share Burden

"The education of each of these forty-four graduates has cost on an average of $1,000 in taxation", the Escanaba superintendent declared, "which means that an average of $54,000 in that community, has been given to education used in other cities, and it is a just contention that other cities should play a just share of the cost, particularly in view of the fact that the young people, in nearly all cases, leave to settle in the large industrial centers."

Supt. Cheney's talk was followed by hearty applause.

Supt. Cheney was the guest at Rotary of Supt. A. R. Watson, chairman of the program.

Michigan Lady is Proud, Now

Don't allow your child to remain weakened or run-down for any length of time. In that condition, children are so easily attacked by the millions of tiny germs that are seething and swarming around us. And it's so easy to get the bilious, headachy constipated, feverish, cross, fretful, puny, underweight ones back into condition, with a hearty appetite, rosy cheeks and abundant energy, by using a purely vegetable product which physicians have endorsed for over 50 years.

Children love the rich, fruity taste of California Fig Syrup and it acts almost like magic to regulate their little bowels and stomachs. It gives these organs tone and strength so they continue to act as Nature intends them to do and you don't have to keep dosing your child. Four million bottles used a year and the enthusiastic words of mothers everywhere prove it gives satisfaction.

Another Michigan mother, Mrs. R. Danielson, 5459 Fourteenth St. Detroit, says: "My little son Warren, suffered from constipation until he got very weak, run down and underweight. I gave him California Fig Syrup and in just a little while he was eating heartily and gaining weight. Soon he was his bright, normal self again."

Always ask for California Fig Syrup by the full name to avoid substitutes.

Total stock sales today 3,921,500 shares.

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Jan. 14—(AP)—prices again drifted in rather listless fashion on the stock market today, although a handful of issues were bid up vigorously on rumors of higher dividends, melon cutting, or split-ups.

Trading during the early hours of the session was impeded by the failure of wire systems west of Pittsburgh, but picked up somewhat as ticker service to western cities was restored, later. Total sales, however, aggregated but 3,921,050 shares.

The credit outlook remained unsettled and blocked the way for ambitious bull operations. Call money renewed at 7 per cent in contrast to Friday's 6 per cent renewal rate, and held at that rate all day, bearing out bankers' predictions that the marked January credit ease of recent years would not be repeated this year.

Time money held persistently at 7½ per cent for all maturities. This is the highest for the 6-month maturity seen in mid-January in more than 20 years, save for 1920. The decline in sterling late last week, which revived hope of gold imports from London, was checked, which eliminated hope of immediate credit improvement from that quarter. Nothing developed to make an increase in the New York federal reserve rediscount rate less probable.

The day's business news was rather colorless. The department of commerce's report that American foreign trade in 1928 reached the highest level for any year save 1920 had been discounted market-wise several weeks ago. A further indication of the strength of the steel industry was the statement of the Otis Steel company, showing the highest earnings in its history in 1928.

Active public utilities also moved in opposite directions, strength of American Superpower A. Buffalo, Niagara & Eastern, Engineers Public Service Warrants and the Penn-Ohio Edison issues being offset by the heaviness of American & Foreign Power warrants, American Gas & Electric, Mohawk & Hudson issues and Northwestern Power.

A brisk demand for Universal Aviation, which advanced nearly 2 points to a new high at 24 3-8, attracted widespread attention in the airline group. This company recently obtained control of the Continental Airways in the southwest, and is reported to be negotiating for other air mail, express and passenger lines. Fairchild gained about a point but Sikorsky fell back on realizing sales.

Trans-Lux advanced more than a point to 11 3-4, doubling the low price of the year, on a heavy turn-over. J. S. Penney & Co. soared 20 points to a new high at 400, but lost about a third of its gain. Bliss & Co., Todd Shipyard, United Biscuit and Western Auto Supply recorded substantial gains.

National Bellas (new) and United Print & Dye Works each broke about 5 points and Bendix dropped 9 on a small turnover. Net declines of 1 to 3 points were scattered throughout the list.

Allied Chemical shot up 18 points to a new high price at 275 on rumors of a stock split up, Wright Aero was also carried up 18 points to a record price at 294, to the accompaniment of unconfirmed reports that a large melon would be cut through the granting of valuable rights, but fell back to 291 at the close. Curtis Aero mounted more than 6 points.

Pennsylvania railroad again broke into the highest ground since before the war, touching 86 3-8, up nearly 3 points. Wall Street understands that the annual dividend rate will be raised from $3.50 to $4 at the next meeting. Canadian Pacific and Union Pacific also improved, while Pere Marquette encountered further profit taking.

Motors improved somewhat on what apeared to be short covering. It is reported in brokerage circles that there has been considerable short selling in this group, particularly from the middle west, inspired by the prospect of keen competition this year, which may impair profits. Studebaker broke into new high ground, and General Motors (old stock) sold about 3 points higher at one time.

American Sugar Refining sold up nearly 4 points to within striking distance of its 1928 high on reports that its 1928 earnings will ru naround $10 a share. Rubbers were again strong, U. S. selling up about 3 points. A representative of the Dupont interests is expected to be made head of the company at the meeting tomorrow, on the retirement of Charles B. Seger, U. S. Steel was firm, but Bethlehem encountered realizing. Otis Elevator, International Telephone, and American Type Founders made extreme gains of about 8 to 9 points.

National Bellas Hess slumped 15 points, and Midland Steel Products preferred 10. General Electric, Commonwealth Power, and Reynolds Tobacco "B" fell back 2 or 3 points. Coppers were generall heavy.

The commodity markets were mostly firm. Cotton gained from 60 cents to more than $1 a bale. Liverpool Cables were higher and the consumption figures for December, while under November, were generally regarded as favorable. Corn improved on reports that the Argentine crop has been damaged by drought, and wheat was in better edmand. Rubber encountered realizing.

Foreign exchanges were featured by the firming up of Sterling, the demand rate rising 1-16 of a cent to $4.84 5-8. Japanese yen dropped 27 points to 45.13 cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Jan. 14—Flickering out of chances of a bumper corn crop in Argentina sent corn, wheat and oats today to new high price records for the season. Increased buying accompanied the upturns, but enormous profit-taking sales afterward wiped out much of the day's gains.

Closing quotations on corn were unsettled, 3-4 at 7-8 to 1 1-8c net higher. Wheat finished 1-8 to 5-8c up, oats 1-8 to 3-8c advanced, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 2c.

All deliveries of corn and oats surpassed today the peak quotations in the season's trading heretofore. For wheat, the new top record established today was for the July delivery alone, but other months attained the highest point yet on the present upward movement of values. Throughout most of the day, attention focused on Buenos Aires advices to leading houses here that prospects of a big crop of Argentine corn this year had finally been cancelled by drought which has prevailed in the greater part of Argentina.

Another outstanding feature in the corn pit today was the fact that corn export business from the United States by way of the Gulf of Mexico was under way at increased premiums as compared with the market for future deliveries. Meanwhile, country offerings of corn to come here were of liberal volume, but were smaller than had generally been looked for in view of the recent sharp advance in prices. About as expected, the domestic corn visible supply today showed an increase of 1,329,000 bushels for the week, and is now 20,182,000 bushels, against 5,570,000 bushels a year ago. Oats followed corn.

Falling-off of 3,743,000 bushels in the United States wheat visible supply total for the week, together with the fact that for the first time of late the European wheat markets were fully reflecting advances scored on this side of the Atlantic, gave a stimulus today to wheat buyers here. A good deal of an offset, though, was increased spread trading, in which wheat was sold against purchases of corn. On the other hand, severe cold weather in domestic winter wheat territory was a bullish influence despite heavy snowfalls over much of the belt.

For the most part, the provision list was firm as a result of corn strength and notwithstanding lower quotations on hogs.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT.

After seeing the air sequences in "The Air Circus" which opened last night at the Delft Theatre it is easy to believe the advance press stories which stated that Sue Carol, David Rollins, and Arthur Lake learned to fly before making this picture. These three youngsters perform in airplanes like veterans at the controls. Their flying ability added to their acting ability did much to make this Fox production, which Howard Hawks and Lew Seiler directed, one of the best that has been seen here in a long time.

While the thrills and exciting moments are furnished by the scenes in the air the picture is not lacking in heart interest and sentimental appeal. There is a winsome quality about Sue Carol that makes her entirely charming. In her efforts to make David Rollins a fearless airman she wins the sympathy of the audience. The charm of the acting in this picture also is enhanced by the presence of Louise Dresser, who plays the role of young Rollins' mother. As always she gives a perfect performance. Arthur Lake, the third member of the trio of youngsters, is absolutely infectious in his performance. You like him from the first flash on the screen.

The theme of the story deals with the efforts of a young man to conquer his fear of the air with the aid of his mother, the girl he loves, and his buddy. There is plenty of room for heart-pull in this picture and the directors succeeded in getting remarkable performances out of all members of the cast.

AT THE STRAND.

"The Cowboy Cavalier" is the name of Buddy Roosevelt's newest Pathewestern showing at the Strand Theatre. The peculiar title is derived through the fact that Buddy removes the mud from a girl's shoe and, just as he is replacing it on her foot, they both see a picture of Cinderella and the Prince Charming.

The girl has lost her memory, even to the extent of not knowing her own name, so Buddy and his mother christen the stranger "Cindy" and it is as Cindy that Olive Hasbrouck, Buddy's leading lady, works throughout most of the picture.

Just as the Prince Charming in the Cinderella fairy tale accomplishes seemingly impossible acts, so does Buddy Roosevelt, as the young deputy sheriff, surmount every difficulty before him. He finds the murderer of the girl's uncle and he is incidental in bringing about conditions that restore her memory. Cindy finds love, romance and wealth at the hands of her Prince Charming, who is just an everyday, two-fisted, fighting, dashing, brainy deputy sheriff in the cow country.

ONE-ARMED HUSKER

Hastings, Neb.—"As busy as a one-armed cornhusker" is no idle figure of speech. Nebraska has one, Peter Faber, who can husk 60 bushels a day. The husking peg is strapped to his leg at the knee.

A copy of Chaucer was recently sold in London for $20,000.

Welding heavy forgings and castings are a specialty in this shop.

Adequate equipment for handling and preheating plus a scientific knowledge of JUST HOW to do the work means prompt, satisfactory service. When it breaks (if it's metal) we can weld it.

U. S. Island Empire Makes Good Headway

Manila—Confidence in Governor General Henry L. Stimson and a desire to cooperate with him was noted by Major General Frank McIntyre, chief of the bureau of insular affairs, during his recent visit to the Philippines. He said that the people of the Islands were making steady material progress.

General McIntyre toured from Manila to the southernmost part of the archipelago. It, incidentally, was his last trip as chief of the bureau of insular affairs, for he retires next January 5 after 23 years of service with that bureau. His last trip to the islands, previous to the one just completed, was in 1920.

"I was impressed with the feeling of confidence of the people in the governor general and the resulting desire to cooperate with him," the general said.

"I also was impressed by the display of affection and feeling of gratitude toward the people of the United States. This feeling is not new, but its showing has for a time been concealed to suppressed. It is now shown with pride, so that it may be seen by all.

"From a material point of view it is evident that the people of the islands are progressing, and have progressed much in the last eight years. The use of the English language is making steady headway. The physical condition of the people has materially improved as a result of better sanitation, better food and the spread of athletic games.

U. S. Officer Heads Nicaraguan Militia

Managua, Nicaragua — Plans have been completed by Brigadier General Elias R. Beadle (Lieutenant Colonel U. S. Marine Corps), head of the Guardia Nacional, for the establishment of a military academy in Managua for the purpose of training Nicaraguans as officers of the guardia, which is eventually to form the defense force of the country.

On January 1 notice is to be sent out announcing the opening of this military school, under the supervision of United States marine officers, who are to be selected with great care as instructors. Only the most capable officers of the marine corps are to become members of the teaching staff, and each one will be selected with particular regard to his ability as an instructor.

In the beginning twenty enlisted men from the guardia will be chosen as cadets and they will be selected by competitive examination. On April 1 this examination will be held, after the moral character, ability and record in the guardia of the applicants have been thoroughly investigated by marine officers. The examination will not be made so rigid that virtually none of the enlisted men can pass it. The educational opportunities which the applicants have enjoyed, the training during boyhood, and their entire record before and after entering the guardia, are to be examined thoroughly.

Joan of Arc Is First Among Paris Statues

Paris—Statues seem to be scattered all over Paris, yet there are only 201 bronze or marble monuments to the famous men and women of France in the streets and squares. There are thousands of others, of course, in the museums and state buildings, and sculptured on walls, as on the facade of the Louvre.

Jeanne d'Arc, national heroine and now a saint, heads the list with four statues, two mounted and two afoot.

Next come Voltaire, Victor Hugo and Alfred de Musset with three each.

The French, fond of oratory, show it by giving public honors to 22 statesmen, including among them Benjamin Franklin and George Washington.

The stage is represented by two, Frederick Lemaitre and Sarah Bernhardt.

Belgium will pay, in 1929, more than $3,000,000 in pensions to military and civil employees.

19 SAINTS ARE GIVEN LETTERS

Parochial High School Lads Hold Annual Football Banquet

Nineteen members of the St. Joseph's high school football squad were awarded varsity monograms at the annual banquet held at the school last night. They were: Skopp, Vandenboom, Mileski, Rowan Fitzharris, Eddie Frasher, Frederickson, Lacrosse, Klug, Scheriff, Leduc, Kholman, Clark, Stern, Gannon, Frenn, Burleson Fitzharris, O'Donnell, Jacobs and McGee. Eleven of the lads are seniors and will be lost to the team through graduation in June.

Reserve monograms were awarded to eleven men: Hanrahan, Legault, Godin, Frasher, Treiber, Hirn, Beauchamp, Curtis, Degrand, Brazeau and Rubens.

The awards by Coach Leo Brunelle came as the climax of the annual football banquet. The dinner, a most delicious meal, was served by the Parent-Teacher association of the school. Mike Stern was toastmaster and the program included short talks by George W. Carr, former football coach at St. Joseph's; Dennis McGinn; Hal Rammel of the Daily Press; Coach Gordon Gleich of the basketball team; Coach Brunelle; and Rowan Fitzharris, George Stoik, Joe Vandenboom, Vincent McGee, and John Larson of the 1928 squad.

Following the awarding of the letters each of the eleven seniors on the squad gave a farewell address. St. Joseph's teams have no playing captain but the senior group elected Stafford Leduc, one of the veterans whose sleeve has the service stripes of four campaigns, honorary captain for the past season.

The affair was a lively and spirited one, with the boys looking forward eagerly and optimistically to the 1929 season. The splendid service given by the school by Coach Brunelle was emphasized and lauded by all of the speakers.

Shift of Third Basemen and Shortstops Brings Comments from Players

BY BRIAN BELL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Jan. 14—(AP)—Half a dozen major league infielders will waste many steps next summer looking for their gloves. From force of habit they will walk to a spot dedicated as a deposit place for a shortstop's mitt when they should go to the third base glove reservation, or the other way around.

In baseball spring training camps, now only a few weeks away, men who have long been stars under the big top of baseball will be rookies again, for they will have to learn new positions.

No season in years has brought such a readjustment of infielders. In a highly specialized baseball age it is not so simple to tell a third baseman, "You play short," or nonchalantly suggest to a shortstop, "Move over to third."

The shortstops who must learn to play third and the third basemen who will be called on to master the tricks of shortstopping will have no time to loaf when the clarion call to baseball arms is sounded next month.

"No," Says McGraw.

John J. McGraw, a great infielder in his day, and the best player for his age in the major leagues today, was called on to give some expert testimony.

"If a man is a good shortstop can it be taken for granted that he would be a good third baseman as well?" the manager of the Giants was asked in a general baseball discussion before he sailed away to Cuba.

The man who played third base for the old Orioles was quick with his reply. It was "no."

"The two positions, as a matter of fact, are widely different," he said.

"Both players, of course, field a lot of ground balls and throw the ball to first or one of the other bases after getting possession of the ball, but there is much more to major league infielding than that.

"A third baseman, for instance, must be adept at coming in fast on slow batted balls and taking them with one hand fo rthe snap throw to first. The shortstop does not have this problem, and then, too, the shortstop has some troubles the third baseman does not face. As a general thing, without any reference to any particular case, I would say that if a man cannot play short, he can not play third."

Third Base First.

Donie Bush, the Pirates' manager, who was one of the game's great shortstops, agrees with the Giant pilot in the main, adding a word for the difficulty of playing midway between the second and third bases.

"A man who has failed to measure up at third base will not find any bed of roses by moving to short," said Bush in a fanning bee at the National League meeting.

Both McGraw and Bush, however, were discussing untried ball players. The changes in position about to be made in the American and National Leagues, if mid-winter tales are to be accepted, are by established stars who probably could play any position if they set their respective minds and muscles seriously to the task.

The Yankees plan to move Mark Koenig from short to third. Washington may reverse the process, with Ossie Bluege going from third to short. The Pirates will have Pie Traynor replace Glenn Wright at short if a likely third baseman is uncovered, and Dave Bancroft may go to third for Brooklyn, leaving Wright in undisputed possession of short.

Manager Stanley Harris, a star second sacker for Washington, may have to play third for Detroit, for he has a great second sacker in Gehringer. The Cleveland Indians apparently are committed to a policy of transferring Joey Sewell from shortstop to third base.

Connie Mark has a chance to sign three players permanently in almost any spot he chooses. Jimmie Fox, a catcher, Ossie Orwoll, a pitcher, and Jimmy Dykes, an infield Jack of all trades, are the individuals. Any one, or all of the trio, can play any position not nailed down.

Jones made the one score for the Spartans late in the game when he found Grace out of position and scored cleanly.

New York, Jan. 14—(AP)—William F. The departure of Carey and Levy opens the southward march of the Garden Specialists. Box office men, auditors and secretaries will follow almost daily for the next week. The fighters plan to start training in or near Miami Beach, February 1.

First orders for ringside tickets arrived at the Garden today and totaled 400 reservations after all the mail and telegrams had been opened. The largest order was for thirty ringside seats from Cleveland. The "house" will be scaled from $5 to $25.

English Army Polo Players Will Not Meet U. S. Teams

New York, Jan. 14—(AP)—Army polo teams representing the United States and England will not meet this year in renewal of their rivalry begun in 1923, it was announced today on receipt of a letter from England declining an invitation to send a British Army team to the United States next summer.

The message received by the Army Central Polo committee at Washington said that although the Army Council of the British War Office "realizes the many advantages that accrue from these friendly contests," it feels that, "it would be quite impossible to spare the services of the officers who would form a representative team for the length of time that would be involved.

Edward Hallicki Joins Cardinals

St. Louis, Jan. 14—(AP)—Edward Hallicki, said to be Bucknell college's most outstanding ballplayer since the days of the late Christy Mathewson, is slated to join the St. Louis Cardinals in June, it was announced today by Branch Rickey, club vice president. Hallicki, a pitcher, also played the outfield in college ball.

Jess Haines, the Cardinals' star right-hander, was closeted for a long time this morning with Rickey but afterwards neither Rickey nor Haines would say they had talked about a new contract, although Haines' old document expired with the 1928 season.

ARMOUR PUSHED INTO 2ND PLACE

Bad Golfing on Final Holes Results in Defeat

Los Angeles, Jan. 14—(AP)—Final echoes of the $10,000 Los Angeles open reverberating through Santa Monica canyon today when a dozen golfers finished rounds they had failed to complete Sunday because of darkness, carried the faltering notes to Tommy Armour's clubs.

The slender Washington, D. C., professional who had paced the field with phenomenal play through the first two rounds only to falter in the final 36-hole drive, in the brief play today almost blasted himself out of second place.

Armour had but one hole to play, having "picked up" Sunday night on the 17th. His play on that last hole was heart-breaking for he needed seven strokes, three over par, to hole out. However, he managed to take second place and money, $1750, with a 72-hole aggregate of 291, six more than MacDonald Smith, the winner.

Two Other Meets.

Armour beat out Leo Diegel, national professional champion, by a single stroke. Diegel's aggregate of 292 gave him third place and $850. Horton Smith, 21-year-old Joplin, Mo., pro, and George Von Elm, blonde amateur from Detroit, deadlocked at 294. Smith romped off with fourth place money, $600, while Von Elm, who "picked up" late yesterday on the 17th, holed out in par today for the low gross amateur trophy.

Tomorrow morning the same galaxy of stars who battled through the Los Angeles tournament will swing into action on the municipal course at Pasadena, Cal., in a $4000 open. After the two-day, 54-hole event is completed, the golfing army will entrain for Texas, there to battle in two "big money" events.

The Badgers led at the half 13 to 6.

Tonight's victory was the third in four starts for Wisconsin.

Reparations Board Awaits Work of American Members

Paris, Jan. 14—(AP)—The reparation commission tonight was awaiting news from Washington concerning the Americans who will serve on the special committee to revise the Dawes plan in order that formal invitations may be sent to them.

The matter has been placed in the hands of the British ambassador at Washington, who was to consult with the other ambassador concerned, including the German and Japanese.

The British ambassador will report first to his government and then London will inform the reparations commission. A meeting of this latter body is expected about the end of the week.

No official confirmation has been received here of the appointment and acceptance of J. P. Morgan, Owen D. Young and Thomas Nelson Perkins, whose names are all contained in dispatches received from the United States. Despite this, it is taken for granted by the French press that Mr. Morgan and Mr. Young will serve as the two chief American delegates with Mr. Perkins as alternate.

The French papers have commented favorably on all three men, Mr. Morgan especially coming in for praise. The papers, regardless of political views, said that Mr. Morgan's connection with the reparations commission would be most important because of his prestige in international finance.

State Briefs

Adrian—Charles Carroll, 55, of Blissfield, who confessed to robbing the First National Bank of Blissfield Tuesday, was sentenced yesterday to serve from 10 to 20 years in the state prison at Jackson, when he entered a plea of guilty t a charge of robbery armed. Carroll obtained about $17,000 i nthe robbery, all of which was recovered.

Flint—Martin Slavinski, 29, and Joseph Saunders, 37, both of Detroit, were sentenced yesterday to life imprisonment in the state prison at Marquette when they pleaded guilty to robbing a laundry company office here of $200.

Marquette—Fergus Bell, 69, for thirty-six years a member of the fire department here, died today.

Marquette—Timothy T. Hurley, former deputy United States marshall and prohibition agent, yesterday was named chief of police, succeeding Aaron Johnson. The appointment is effective February 1.

Big Rapids—A. H. Breeze, Lansing, was arraigned here yesterday on a charge of selling stock without a license from the state securities commission. He demanded examination and January 30 was set as date for the examination. Breeze was selling stock in the National Artichoke Products company of Lansing.

Pittsburgh Plans 1929 Balloon Race

Pittsburgh—The University of Pittsburgh football stadium will be the starting point of the national elimination balloon races next May 4. This race will determine American entrants for the international races to be started from St. Louis the following October, under the auspices of the National Aeronautic association.

The stadium's seating capacity of 70,000 likely will be taxed to the limit in view of the fact that a crowd estimated at close to 100,000 witnessed the Labor Day elimination races here at Bettis field when an electrical storm played havoc with many of the bags and prompted officials to choose an earlier date for the eliminations next year.

Already, according to the local committee in charge of next year's races here, invitations to attend the event have been accepted by Vice President-elect Curtis, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, Secretary of War Davis and his assistant for aeronautics, F. Trubee Davidson; Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the navy aero corps; Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of the army air service; and Brig. Gen. F. P. Laham.

The local committee for the races here is headed by James M. Magee. It includes such prominent members as Col. William Thaw, who participated in this year's non-stop air race from New York, R. B. Mellon, Richard K. Mellon, and W. L. Mellon, Pittsburgh business men, and Senator David A. Reed and James Francis Burke, republican party leaders.

Cobbler Lunches With Coolidge

"Have a bite to eat," suggested President Coolidge. "Well, I don't mind if I do," acquiesced James Lucey—and thus the elderly cobbler of Northampton, Mass., had luncheon at the White House with his old friend, the chief executive of the United States. Lucey is pictured as he left the White House.

Illness Keeps Him From Job For First Time in 30 Years

FOR THE FIRST time in thirty years, illness, yesterday, prevented Eugene G. Royce, assistant cashier of the First National Bank, from taking his place in the "cage" of that financial institution. Mr. Royce is a victim of influenza at his home, 624 Lake Shore Drive. His condition was said last night to be not serious, but it was severe enough to cut into a health record which his associates believe to be unmatched in the city.

Germany Is Excited Over New Oil Gusher

Peine, Lower Saxony (AP)—An oil gusher producing ten tons of oil within one hour was struck in the Oberg field near here. When the drill penetrated to a depth of 1,600 feet, the pressure of gas suddenly caused the oil to spout to a height of 60 feet and in such a volume that an emergency had to be quickly constructed. This precipitate flow of oil soon stopped, but immediately began again when drilling was resumed.

An oil gusher was something of a sensation in this part of the country where nothing similar had ever been seen. Mining engineers consider the prospects excellent for further oil wells in the district.

Club Flouts Superstition.

When the Thirteen Club of London held its annual luncheon recently superstition was defied in many ways. The members walked under a ladder, opened an umbrella in the room, spilt salt, sat at an oval table facing ladies' shoes, and in other ways flouted bad luck.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches rub on good old Musterole.

Musterole relieves the congestion and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

First you feel a warm tingle; the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief. Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Question Doctor About Relations With Mrs. Ruth

Watertown, Mass., Jan. 14—(AP)—Dr. Edward H. Kinder, Boston dentist, was questioned for nearly four hours here late today by Watertown police concerning his relations with Mrs. George Herman Ruth, wife of Babe Ruth. Mrs. Ruth was bugned to death in Dr. Kinder's home here Friday night.

She had been known to neighbors as Mrs. Helen Kinder.

Kinder hurried away with his attorney, James H. Vahey, immediately after the interview, but Chief of Police John F. Milmore revealed that Kinder said he never had married Mrs. Ruth, although he had lived with her at intervals since 1927.

"Dr. Kinder told us," said Chief Milmore, "that Saturday night he walked the streets in distraction, fearing the story was coming out. He remained in seclusion Sunday on the advice of his father, who told him there was plenty of time in which to come forward and that there was nothing to fear."

Chief Milmore said Kinder told him his brother, William H. Kinder, Jr., furnished the information to the undertaker which described Mrs. Ruth as Mrs. Kinder.

Ruth arrived in Boston yesterday and issued a short statement saying: "My wife's death is a great shock to me." He has since remained in seclusion. Friends declared he was grief stricken.

Thomas P. Woodford and William J. Woodford, brothers of Mrs. Ruth, said earlier today that they were not satisfied with the police investigations of the circumstances attending their sister's death and demanded a thorough investigation.

Island One-Man Golf Course.

Bardsley Island, Cardigan Bay, has a nine-hole golf course that is used by only one man. M. Murphy, the lighthouse keeper, laid it out, and every day he plays against bogey. The other 37 inhabitants of Bardsley Island do not believe in sport.

School Relic Given Lauder.

When Sir Harry Lauder was entertained at a luncheon at Arbroath, Scotland, recently he was presented a model of the old half-time school in Gravesend which he attended when a boy. The model had been made of wood from the old school.

Presbyterians Form "Older Young Folk" Organization Sunday

Twenty young people, members of the First Presbyterian church, met Sunday afternoon at the church parlors, and laid the foundation for an "older young folks" organization.

Those present and several others will form the membership. While no definite age limit has been set, the organization is primarily to fill an important need in the church in providing a devotional and social society for the older young folks.

Present plans call for weekly meetings every Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The program will consist of a devotional service followed by a social period and a light lunch. Social functions will also be carried out during the winter months.
